Language of Intuition Video Transcript:

Okay, so the language of intuition, I wanna start by setting up. Intuition is a language. Intuition is your first language. So you speak it, you've always spoken it. You have access to all of this. Always. You just might not know it yet. And the vocabulary that you have access to that you can build upon, that you can always grow and learn more about are your Claires.

And we'll get more into that soon. And the Claires and your own unique combination of how those presents for you are your specific dialect. So you remember that I was talking about how I majored in theater. I took a year of dialects class in college and it was one of my absolute favorite courses to take because I mean, you get to learn so much about different cultures, so much about.

The energy of different people based on how they grew up and the different influences they have, um, just based on geography and everything happening to them. And right. Your, um, your dialect would be influenced by where you grew up, if you moved to a certain place, how fast or slow the culture is, where in your body that placement is.

So it's fascinating to see how a dialect can have such specific placement and energy to it, like a specific energy signature, just like Claire's, your own specific combination of Claires and how you access your own intuition and how it comes in for you. So intuition, the ability to understand something with immediate, I can't even see what it says, but you can immediately without the need for conscious reasoning.

So it's that I don't know how I know, I just know it's that I just had a gut feeling. I just. New. I saw a sign. I heard my name. Intuition is access to this information without relying on just your logic and language is the principle method of communication. So the intuition, the whole point of it is communication. How energy and information comes in for you and communicates to you, and also how you communicate to yourself and also how you communicate and gain information from other people. So intuition as a first language, I always say, if you worked with me at all, you would know that the just most basic building blocks of your intuition would be a clear yes or a clear no.

And babies, no clear yes, clear no. Right? If they're a clear no, they are crying, they are losing their minds. They are not happy and it's just. Clear, Clear. No, they're happy. They're smiling, they're relaxed, they're entertained. They're content. They are very clear with their yeses and nos. But it gets watered down, doesn't it?

As we grow up, all of a sudden when we're happy, we can't be too loud about it. When we're sad, we can't be too loud about it. And the feedback that we get from the world when we're so much of ourselves is you have to turn it down. You have to override. You can't be in your truth. Right? And I mean, for very many different reasons, we get socialized into turning ourselves down.

So yes, no, and then this is a world of contrast, right? This is right, wrong, true, false. Yes. No. And we start to understand the world in a binary, the very. Like bright white and the very, very dark. No. And it's up to us using our intuition to tune in and fill in all the different shades of every single color that exists in between those two extremes.

But at our very basic, we understand. Clear? Yes, clear. No. And so, like I said, we as we are socialized and we exist in society and traditional parent, That's a whole other conversation. We have to turn ourselves down. So clean your plate. Am I full? Am I not full? Am I still hungry? I don't know. All of a sudden somebody else says, No, you need to keep eating.

Oh, am I hungry? Maybe I am hungry. You're right. I should keep eating right. And, and then the stop crying. Uh, am I sad? Maybe, maybe I'm not sad. Okay, let me override myself again. Sit on Santa's lap. If somebody, you know, parents are saying, Oh, it's funny, it's fine. You know, this little small child has to override their instinct.

Ooh, stranger danger. Oh, that's not important. That's not a cue for me. I have to turn myself down so you can sleep when you're dead. And, and this is the context too. It it, it pervades society. It's, it's in our entire lives as we grow up at every single stage. So, hustle, culture, capitalism. Again, a whole other conversation.

We are constantly being asked to override our intuition, override our body's needs, override our moods and our wants and our instincts constantly. If you're tired, nope. Can't sleep if you're hungry. Nope. You gotta keep working. Work through lunch. Um, and, and just with, even with the culture right now, like, um, making fun of, of people, of, of people who, um, are different able than we are of people of other cultures, all of a sudden, Oh, this is funny.

Oh yes, yes, you're right. It is funny. Is it though? Because children know when something feels good and when something doesn't, they know when their feelings are hurt and when they're not so interesting. We're constantly being asked to override ourselves. So it's up to us to start relearning this language of intuition.

What is the truth in our body? How many of us give me, um, Give me a hands up if you have ever been indecisive in your life. , if it's, um, I don't know, what do you wanna do? I don't know. What do you wanna do? What do you wanna eat? I don't know. What do you wanna wear today? I don't know. Yep, Yep. And I will be the first to say yes.

Absolutely. I grew up being very indecisive, very, very anxious, very afraid to make decisions, to make mistakes because I didn't know what that intuition felt like. It was in deeply ingrained in me to override my own intuition, my own sense of what I wanted and what I needed, and when I wanted, and how I wanted, right?

So it's time to start with really small micro decisions, really low stakes. What do I feel like, What do I wanna wear? What do I wanna eat for dinner? What do you wanna do that I don't know. Is such poison. It's, it's such a detractors from our intuition. So beware that. I don't know. Anytime your instinct is, I don't know, Uhuh, No.

If you did know though, what do you feel like? What feels right? So how you can start differentiating all the chatter and kind of try to figure out what your right answer is, is what feels right, what feels fun, what looks yummy? And pay attention to the words I'm using. Feels right? Feels fun, Looks yummy.

What sounds good to you? Sounds good to you. Right? We use these language, uh, this language so naturally in just our everyday speech. And these are clues to how our intuition speaks to us. What feels good? What sounds good, what looks right? And then of course the basis of what do you actually know? What's the weather today?

Okay? You do know something. You do know it's gonna be freezing cold today. So maybe you do know that you do enjoy sweaters or a scarf or something. Okay? So that's what you know now that you know what, you know what feels right. So vocabulary. Vocabulary is the words that we, I heard feedback there for a second.

So again, what looks good, What feels right, what sounds good? It's a clue. So that brings me to our clears. So we have physical senses, right? See, hear, touch, taste, and smell. Basic. We're all exposed to these from like, you know, preschool. But our psychic sense is how our intuition speaks to us.

Has corresponding senses that use those five physical senses to communicate to us. And in one bonus, like it says, there is clear cog. So we're gonna go through each, each one. Clear seeing is how you see in your mind's eye. And it's kind of that idea of when you're imagining, um, a memory, if you're recalling a memory, or if you are, um, having a dream, for example, it's not like you're seeing, you know, this random experience materialized in front of you.

It does work that way for some people. But just for, for the sake of simplicity, we're talking about in your mind's eye, right? In your mind's eye. Can you imagine something? And then with that similar feeling of like, it's not actually in front of you, it's kind of in your imagination, clear hearing. Can you hear something like that?

Can you recall what it feels like on your body to feel something with your body? Can you recall what it it tastes like to have your grandma's special cookies or your favorite kind of pizza? Can you taste it in your mouth just by thinking about it? Thinking and putting in quotes? And then same thing with smelling.

Hmm. Somebody's cooking next door with that. What does that smell like? Your ability to recall just with these senses is the gateway to opening up your intuition. So here we go. Your clues in our language. This comes from Oh, yeah. I see. I see what you mean there. Oh, yeah, yeah. I hear you. Totally. Yeah. Yeah.

Oh, I feel you totally. Oh my gosh. Yeah. Oh, I feel you. I feel you. Oh, gotcha. Yeah, yeah, that makes sense. So the clear knowing, the clear cogniti sense is, I don't know how I know, I just know. Right. So all of these working together, usually we have maybe one or two strong points, but most of us will start to notice how all of these start to come in and interact with each other and they build on each other.

So the more that we pay attention to our language, I see. Hmm, Yeah. Yeah. I feel ya. We will start to pay attention to how we naturally gravitate towards using our senses. But who are we communicating with? Languages. Communication. Right? So the words that we speak to ourself from ourself has an effect on how we think and the real reality that creating with our, with our, uh, in our own lives, right?

It has an effect on how we impact other people. It has an effect on how we speak to our higher self, our spirit team, our loved ones, and spirit. We have this language that we use. And then again, from self to self, we're also receiving from others to us. How we hear is filtered through our own understanding of what the world is, our own concept of ourselves, and then again, from our spirit team to us it's their language that they get to communicate too.

So it's a, it's still a form of communication. It's a back and forth conversation between us to us, between us to others, and between us upstairs or behind the scenes is another way I like to say it. So what does it feel like? I mentioned that it's kind of a distant memory, right? How we talk about it in regular life, it's, Oh, I had a gut feeling I shouldn't walk when the red light turned green and then the car comes in.

Ooh. I just had a feeling. I don't know how, but I knew that was the last time I ever saw him. I don't know how, but I knew that's the clear cogness, right? Oh, I saw police lights in my head just before I was pulled over. I didn't see them with my physical eyes, but it just, it's an idea that popped into my head outta nowhere.

Right? It's a, it's a little heads up, it's a warning. I had this song stuck in my head all day. It's not like you're hearing this song again. It could be that all of a sudden you turn the radio on and there it is. There's a song that has this special message. But more often than not, it's, I had just, I just had this song stuck in my head and it was so weird and it was just replaying, and I didn't notice it until I actually realized, Oh my gosh, there's a song stuck in my head.

And then next time that happens to you, pay attention. What song is it? What words are in this song? What does it remind you of? It could be a special Hello from your. And then another one, I was walking down the street. Suddenly I smelled my grandma's special suit. That actually happened to me one time, and that is Claire aliens smelling.

So all of the, all of our physical senses come into play with this sense memory idea. And it's another way our spirit team and our own higher self can communicate to us constantly. It's a constant communication. So how do we work out this muscle? So where attention goes, energy flows, right? It's practice, attention, repetition, It is intentional practice.

I know that you guys did a little bit of tuning in with the ACOs record session, and then we're gonna be doing something like that similar later on. But the more and more we get into that space, the more and more we can fine tune our different senses. And because we're going to be doing an exercise so that you know what you're looking for, it's going to be an interesting experience to see.

Exactly how this works for you. So now that we're learning what it is that we're looking for, you might actually notice more than you did last time. Oftentimes we think, Oh, you know, I was looking for like the burning bush, the big sign of something that I was gonna see in front of me, or this great visualization, and it's actually, it's as delicate as the whisper.

Sometimes it comes in and it's just like a flash like that and it goes away and it's, again, it's like that same feeling of the memory that it's just kind of far away. Like if you can picture, um, just like a song or something, or a memory that you actually have, you'll notice that it's not like, it's not so present in your experience.

It's just like, it's kind of running in the background and you have to one, notice that it's happening and then turn down. Your input, your sensory input from the present physical sense to notice, oh, that's playing in the background. And then turn up the volume, the visual volume, the auditory volume, the kinesthetic volume of that memory to kind of bring it up front and center and see what am I remembering?

Remembering what is there for me? What am I looking for? How am I feeling? What do I see? What do I sense? And all of those senses will start to work together. But again, it takes noticing, It takes getting quiet and it takes just realizing the different ways that it's coming in all at the same time. Is everybody following me so far?

Ok. Good. . Ok. All right. So as we strengthen our intuition, it's our job to be responsible with our energy so that we understand when it's. Higher guidance, intuition, which is clear, which is truth, which is unbiased versus our own human ego getting in the way. So with therapy, with inner work, with growth, with all this, um, self love, um, inquiry that we're doing, it's intuition or anxiety, what is, what do those two different things feel like?

Cause you know, anybody could, could get a flash of like, my kid's in a car accident and was that a heads up or was that anxiety? How do you know? Well, intuition again, it's fast, it's simple. It's no drama. It's truth like the sky is blue. No drama. This sky is blue. Okay. But if it's like, Oh my God, this sky is blue, that's not intuition, that's drama, That's anxiety.

And then not only that, but anxiety's gonna keep going. Well, what if they get into an accident? And what if I didn't do everything I could? And what if I should have gone taken the other car? And like, that's anxiety. It's like the repetitive, obsessive sticker track that won't shut up in intuition is the sky is blue.

Heads up, take a different car. You won't get the whole story. You won't get the context. You'll just get a hand, Take the other car. Why? And then, And then you start with the anxiety, right? But it's our job to slow it down and tune in. Where is this coming from? And then you could even ask your team, Hey, I am so worried.

Can you please give me a different sign? Can you give me a different piece of information? Cause I am just stressed out by the way that you just showed me this. And I would love some clarity. Thanks. It's their job to communicate. It's our job to listen. And then once we know what it's like to have a conversation, then we can just continue the conversation.

They're like our besties. It doesn't have to be that serious. So keeping going, intuition or internalized bias, Is it intuition or is it lack of information? It's our job to stay fully in the 3d, get all the information that we can so that we can make intelligent, informed, discerning choices about our life and not be giving our power away.

Um, okay, so we went over the prominent Claires that we can develop them, that there can be overlap, and then the sense memory exercises. Okay. So. Everybody has intuition. There's absolutely nothing special about me that I can communicate to the other side and receive messages. Like literally everyone can do this.

Everybody is a soul. So we all have access to this soul side of ourselves. And not only that, we don't actually have to know that that's what we're doing for it to be true. So you look at the sommelier, right? In parallel to how we do the clear, Yes, clear. No. A beginner wine person could be like, This is red wine, this is white wine.

The end. But the more and more we go into it, the more and more we learn, the more and more we refine our palette, we realize, oh wow, there is an entire world to learn about here. We, somebody could be a sommelier and their training is extensive. They can just smell the wine and taste the wine and, and pick out just from those two senses.

No information. What the rals of the grapes were, where that wine came from in the world. Right? What, what brand was it? What kind? Like they have that attuned sensitivity. And I would imagine that without tasting it physically, they can have that recall as they're learning. Mm. This is what, um, these grapes feel taste like, right?

This is what these tannins feel like in on my tongue. This is what strawberries feel like. Like it always reminds me of that movie. Sideways. Yes, Eat 'em cheese. But anyway.

So again, the perfumer, right? This is actually from a website, which I found fascinating. It says, You can already begin your olfactory training by guessing the smells of, of very distinct raw materials such as vanilla, rose and mint. Smell them individually with your eyes closed as a great exercise for developing that sense.

Breathe calmly and retain their sense to help you memorize their perfumes, associated them with specific memories. Do you see how they're incorporating all the senses with in motion and creating ex an experience for this person to learn the differentiation between this smell and that smell? And sometimes it's so slight that these people have the ability to discern between very slight differences in smells.

Can you imagine? That's crazy. And what I love is that it's accessible to everyone. Again, they're all human senses. You can work them out. The more that you learn, the more that you expose yourself to even just tuning into. I don't know if you could hear my two year old in the back, but it is what it is.

Okay, so the musician Clear Hearing, say Tobin, he was deaf. How did he like, Obviously he wasn't deaf for always, but he had the memory of what notes felt like and sounded like he would use that sense memory to compose and have an idea and bring it out into the 3d. Right. That's clear hearing. It wasn't hearing first and then creating It was somewhere in the ether and then coming in.

To actually create it right in the physical. Charlie put on TikTok a little bit more of a modern example. You constantly see him creating music. Oh, what if it goes like this? Boom, boom, boom. And what if it goes like this td and it, all of a sudden he puts it together and he understands that feels right.

Mm, that feels off. Mm, that sounds good. And you can see also with him how he's using all these different senses in conjunction to create something beautiful. Another way that, um, Claire audience comes in for us again, is if we have a song stick in our head, or if a song pops in, or if a word pops in, or even if you're a writer, you might hear a little bit differently.

All of a sudden you might hear an entire phrase, a sentence, a word. Oh, you're just trying to chew this. Like, how, how am I gonna finish this one phrase of poetry? I heard a word and then you write it down, right? It's, these are the senses that we're already using in our very human, very 3D lives, and we're just not really aware of how that works.

Same thing, visual artists, the painter, the photographer, the sculptor that they might see an imagination, an idea of vision in their mind again. They're not seeing, Oh, here's a physical thing that I'm going to copy and then I'm gonna create, No, it's in the ether. And all of a sudden an idea in their minds, uh, their mind's either, right?

And then they put it together and they make it happen. It's their inspiration that flows through, um, dreams. Another way that we are clairvoyant, another way that our loved ones might come visit and dreams, and it's. Here, right on mind's eye. So again, dli, his art was very dream, dream influence. A very surrealist painter, right?

Uh, same thing. It's just a very on the nose example of like the dream, the clairvoyance coming through and creating art. So Claires are the dialect of the intuition again. So Claires are all the psychic senses, all the way that our sense memory comes into our experience and comes together so that we can understand something, have a heads up about something, have an idea, a creative inspiration.

Um, and the way that those senses work for all of us is very individual. It's based on our past experiences. It's based on our upbringing, It's based on our culture, It's based on the things that we know, the things that we've learned. Like I said, I majored in theater, so my guides speak to me in a very theatrical kind of way that use a vocabulary of my own past experience to elicit a certain response.

Or they might show me in a reading, for example, they might show me what it's like for me to have my mom. So, Oh, okay, so this feels like a mom energy coming in. So again, feels like I have that frame of reference. This feels like my mom, so that I would know, Oh, this is a mother energy coming in. So again, it's just one more way that our spirit team and our higher self communicates to us, so that we can understand something that they're trying to tell us.

Right, And that's different for every single person. Oh. So right now we are actually going to connect to our intuition, and we can do this from anywhere at any time. This is available to everybody. So like I said before, it's a process of getting quiet, learning how to tune out all the noise, our own anxiety, our own little inner ticker, all the outside expectations and opinions and differentiate.

Is this all the outside stuff or is this coming in from my heart, from my gut, from my body, from my guides, from my inner knowing, Right? So let's just try it. So if everybody could just close your eyes where you are, we're gonna just take a deep breath and really get quiet. We're gonna maybe put your hand on your heart.

That'll activate your heart. Put your attention on your heart and feel love, feel softness, feel care, feel centered. Take a deep breath in this comfortable, loving energy. Know that you're here for a reason. You're here on this planet for a reason. You are here on this call for a reason. Your guides have brought you to this experience so that you can develop your communication with them, so that they can help you in a more impactful, dynamic way.

That is so beautiful. Take a deep breath.

Thank yourself for showing up for you. Receive my gratitude for showing up here today and hanging out with me on what could be a really busy night for.

And you can come up with whatever your own prayer is, but you can always set your intention. So this is an example of what I might say. I connect with the wisdom of the highest vibration, of unconditional love and truth and ask for guidance for the best and highest good of myself and all involved. So this is how you calibrate yourself to love and truth so that you can trust yourself.

You can trust what comes in. You know that the information that comes in is not going to be harmful to yourself or somebody else. You don't have to worry about anything. This is a safe place. And then you just get an observer mode. You noticed what sounds might come in. You notice what images might flash in your brain.

It might be colors it, it might just be nothing like, but it's okay. It's just a matter of tuning in. It's like turning on the radio just to see what's on or opening the fridge to see if there's anything new that's yummy to eat. You don't know until you look. You don't know until you turn it on. So this is available to you at all times and.

Something that I advise beginners to do is to write everything down. Cause it's, you can open your eyes too, by the way now if you like, but if you write things down, it's really easy to start to see, Oh, I actually did pick on something, pick up on something there, and I tried to like tuck myself out of it.

Or, um, this is the thing that was the hit, that was the information, that was the hint. But here's how my mind started making the whole story up about it. Here's the idea, like the logical progression of like my mind filling in the blanks versus like the intuition speaking, right? So when you ha have that like tangible evidence of, Oh yeah, I actually did get this information, you can start calming down your analytical mind that starts to make you, that wants you to feel like, Oh, come on this, you're totally making this up.

This is ridiculous. This feels silly. Like you, you are totally off on that. Like just. Just turn that voice down, like it's always gonna be there. It's there for me constantly, but it's a matter of remembering that it's there and remembering who's driving this bus and deciding. Yeah, you get to turn it down for a little bit.

So let's practice just our sense memory, right? We get to switch on our senses. So I'm going to come up with like, think, I think three or four different, um, scenes or ideas. And what I want you to do is put yourself in that idea, that scene, and pay attention. What sounds are you, Are you hearing what visuals are coming in?

When you think about this idea and notice which one comes in first. Is it the visual, then the sound? Is it the sound and then a feeling? Just notice, right? Beach.

You could write it down just just so you can keep track of what senses are active, are active already, and then once you think you got everything you can get, challenge yourself to get one more sense in there if you got the seeing and the hearing. Okay. What does it feel like to be at the beach?

And also if you have some water, stay hiked with it.

All right. Let's do another one. Restaurant. What does it feel like to be at a re.

I got smell first. Yeah, I'm just catching up on the chat guys. I have not been able to catch up on the chat. Uh oh, that's beautiful.

Oh my gosh. I have to look through all of these. I don't have time to do that right now, but I will definitely go back to review that prayer. By the way, BT Dubs, Okay, so restaurant, we got restaurant roller coaster.

What do you see? What do you hear? What do you.

And you'll notice that those are the three ones that I focus on, because you can't really taste a rollercoaster. You can't really, I mean, you could smell a rollercoaster, but that's nearly nausea and the wind. That's funny. Um, yeah, it's, it's not, it's not some of the most common ones. Right. It's not the most primary, but, you know, there are some people that, that's their, that's their superpower.

You can taste beer . Yeah. Very true. Very true. When a, Oh my gosh. Get a bug in your mouth. That's hilarious. Luckily, that has not happened to me. Ew. Okay, next one. Happy birthday.

Happy birthday. What does it, what does it bring up? What experience is that? What are you seeing? What are you hearing? What are you feeling? And you could, you know, you could taste birthday cake on this one.

You're not actually having birthday cake, but you could still have that experience of the birthday cake. Your mind is so powerful, isn't it so cool? Music and candles. Mm-hmm. . Yeah. Oh, ooh. The feeling, the clear sentience coming out. Emotional warmth of love. Oh, I feel that. Mm-hmm. . Yeah. And I'd be curious to everybody who's responding with all these experiences, do these match up with the learning styles from the.

Yeah. Isn't that interesting? Isn't that interesting?

I felt sound first for all of them, but the birthday brought back to my 30th birthday and how happy I was to be surrounded by people who really cared about me. Oh, I love that. For me, it matches first as a visual learner, and then it feels like I'm experiencing it. Yeah. When it's environments with people around, it's a lot of other people's energy that, Oh, yeah, and that's a whole, We can just go so much deeper into the Clair Sentience.

There's like the emotions of people with Clair empathy. There's the clear tangenty that you pick up on information with just touching something. There's a whole bunch of other stuff, but yes, to keep it simple, it's just the feeling of it.

Fascinating. I can talk about this stuff all day. It's so fun. Okay, next. What did you notice? Okay, good. I we're already having a chat. All right. So visual, sound, feeling, memory, smell, all of that. Well done everybody. Well done. I hope you had an interesting experience. Oh, thank you, Allie. I appreciate that.

Sharing. Resharing the prayer. Okay, next slide. So gratitude, I had you put your hand on your heart right and a full heart. That activated heart chakra is what integrates everything that we get up here and everything that we experience down here on the 3d. Everything else, it's the center point. It's the point of connection between us to ourselves, between us, to other people, between us, to our higher selves and our higher guidance.

So again, it's our job to do the work, the healing work, the educational work to make sure that we're not coming from ego on either on either side of the spectrum. Like I said right here, the need to be right and in control, in order to feel safe. That's an unbalanced route. Like it is so easy to fall in the trap of doing all this stuff, like, Oh, I have to be right.

Ugh, dang it, I'm wrong. I'm the worst. I suck. Ugh, right? It's so easy to come. Or the other side of it where like, and this is so rampant on TikTok, I can't even handle it. This is like, I could just go on a whole diatribe on this, but there's so many people coming from this sense of ego, like, I am better than everyone.

I am picking up on so many things. I am privy to knowledge that you are not, and I am the only one who has the correct stance on this. That's also an unbalanced crown. So it's all another expression of ego, just the two extremes. So again, if we can integrate and come back to here, come back to why we do this.

Why do we live this way? Why do we connect to ourselves, to each other, to spirit? Why do we do it? Then going from there in the spirit of service and the spirit of generosity and love and connection, we can't go wrong and that is probably, I believe, the most powerful way to do things. All right. Let's see.

So making big decisions. So here's where we put it into practice, right? What's the point of connecting to our intuition if we're not gonna use it to actually do things like, it doesn't really matter what we have for dinner. It doesn't really matter what we were on, you know, for today, but when we're so confused, when there's so much mental soup, we have to have a clear way to access this information, to access our higher guidance.

So in the similar way that I had you put yourself on a rollercoaster in a birthday party, you can do that with decisions you can imagine. Okay, If I make this decision this way, put yourself in that future situation. What do you feel? What do you hear? What do you sense? What do you know? How does your butt like, are your, are your shoulders up here?

Or are they relaxed? How does your gut feel that feeling in that, in that situation? Oh, thank you. Sylvia. Also, cool Name, girl. . And then with the other situation, how does that version of the future feel? How, what do you know? What do you sense? What do you hear? What visions do you get? You might get a song in your head.

You might get, I don't know, like you could get any thousand things in your, in your experience. And it's all going to be specifically tailored to you, to your experience and to the answers that you're trying to get in that moment.

So again, notice, put yourself in observer mode and just listen. Listen just with your ears. But like, listen, just, it's like that. Wait and see, like the looking in the fridge to see what's there, or turning the radio on to see what's there. See what's there, Listen and see what's. The quality of breathing.

Yes. Okay, so we're getting set up just for a second. In a second. We're gonna go into our little breakout groups asking for a friend. So, with the big stuff, if we're not used to hearing feedback this way or tuning in this way, sometimes yeah, it makes sense to need like a little bit of an external validation, right?

So you can ask your guides for a message and again, connect to your heart. Get your ego, your need to be right, your need to control out of the way. It's, it's really not helping anybody. Like, it's so natural by the way. Like if you're feeling it, it's all good because that's real. However, you can still decide, set the intention.

I literally imagined myself being picked up and put aside like, you little human, go over here. Thank you so much. I'm gonna let them drive from here. Right? And then again, get an observer mode. Don't judge anything that comes in. It might be the most outlandish, random thing. Like if somebody said toothpaste on a violin , that makes no sense, right?

What is toothpaste on a violin? But if somebody said to me, Toothpaste on a violin, do you know how mind blown I would be? That's my daughter's first joke when she was three, Is toothpaste on a violin? You have no way of knowing that. But if you saw toothpaste on a violin, that'd be amazing. That'd be so much fun.

So don't judge anything that comes in. Whatever comes in the feeling. Whatever you're sensing, whatever you're hearing, well, literally anything, just even if it's the slightest thing, write it down. You feel hot, Okay? Write it down. You feel cold, Okay? Write it down. You feel floaty. Okay? You feel dizzy, Okay?

Don't judge it. Just write it down.

Okay? It's time for the breakout groups, everybody. So what I want you to do is just say hi to your partner, Don't share anything at all. And we're gonna set the intention. What does my partner need to know for their best and highest good with all the love in my heart? What do they need to know? And just write everything down and then share a little bit, maybe like in five minutes, the sharing.

Hey, June, what do you think? Yeah, so, um, each person should probably get about two to three minutes. So we will reconvene in about 15 to 20 minutes. How does that sound to everyone? And I think the, the biggest, first of all, this was amazing. Thank you so much, Sylvia. Um, absolutely. I think the biggest, um, the way this really helps me personally is like, yeah, like we just grab information or at least I try to grab information and my clear cognizance I think is like the strongest.

Um, but this helped me decipher like, oh, I think I can, um, when I practice with someone, I think I can tangibly tell them, this was a feeling, this is a smell, this is a, a taste. I can break that down as opposed to just like generically calling it information. Mm-hmm. . So in your breakout sessions, if you guys can, like, after you write the list down, if you guys can also like describe to the partner, Is it a feeling, is it a taste?

Is it, what are you seeing on like, categorizing I think would add even more depth to the information that Love that. Perfect. Yeah. So let's, um, have, let's create six breakout rooms and, um, we'll reconvene in about 15 minutes and everybody gets to go make a list and Sylvia and I will help her out the rooms.

Does that sound good? Before we break. Any questions for Sylvia real fast? Actually, could you, Hi. Just go ahead directions really quick. Sorry, Eva. Um, we're just supposed to write things down about the people in our group, or we're supposed to tell them what we wrote down. I'm just a little confused on the directions.

Sorry. Yeah, absolutely. So first we write it down just like get in, get in that observer mode and just whatever you notice, whatever's coming in, just write it down, blah, blah, blah. If you don't know what to write, say, I don't know what to write, I dunno what to write. This feels dumb. I feel stupid. Like literally anything that's in your brain that just comes through, write it down for like five minutes with the intention, like I said, of this is messages for my partner, but it's just one, one more way to get ourselves outta the way.

So then once you're done with those five minutes of writing and you both should be writing at the same time, then you're gonna take turns to share whatever it is that came in with your partner. Does that help? Yeah. Thank you. Hi, Sylvia. I have a question. Mm-hmm. , So I know with anxiety can last some time, but with intuition, is that more a fleeting sensation or does it take time as well?

Like is it lasting? Hmm. I will say it's different for everybody, so that's kind of a tricky one to address. However, what I have noticed is with my example of the sky is blue, if it comes in the first time, it's the sky is blue. The next time again, it's still gonna be, the sky is blue. It's not blue and cloudy.

It's not, Oh, it might be cloudy tomorrow. It's not like it's, it's, it has no qualifiers. There's no emotion attached to it. It's just true. This sky is blue. Take the other car, make a right. Sign up for this class. It's very simple and it's very direct drama free with anxiety, it's different every time. It can be pervasive.

It can be like the, the loop in your brain, I should do this, I should do this, should I should do this. But it has that like urgency to it and it kind of feels, You see how I'm like, my shoulders are up here and I'm like kind of bouncing my seat. It's not still, it's not still water. It's, and you, and you see in my language, right?

And you see in my body right how it feels different. It's. Two different energy signatures and it will show up differently for every single individual. And it's up to you to start to see, Ooh, what is this feeling? And it could be anxiety on top of an intuitive message. Sometimes when I'm like not meditating enough and I'm like just going and like with the kids and just go like very 3d, I'll feel this like, ugh.

And what that is for me is spirit trying to get my attention. Like, Hey, yo, you should go meditate. Like we're trying to tell you something, but you're too noisy. Can you just bring it on back for a second? So then once I go in, I get quiet and I'm like able to get all that out. Then it's quiet and then I could see what's there.

So that's a good practice to have to, Wow. Thank you so much. Yeah.

Awesome. So without further ado, I'm gonna create six rooms. There should be about four to five people per room. And um, thanks for clarifying that, Sylvia. So I guess everyone will take five minutes to get messages for like the three, four other people in the room, and then you'll take another 10 minutes, like going around sharing.

All right. See you guys, um, on the other side in 50 minutes.

Welcome back everybody. Hope that was fun. We're gonna share some crazy stories. Um, well, Sylvia first has something to share. Why does it say breakup room? Close and, Okay. I don't know why they're re whatever. Interesting. Oh, maybe they're just going one by one anyway. Yeah, So I can't see everybody's faces, which is such a bummer.

But in one of the groups, and I can't see everybody, but in one of the groups, somebody was picking up on stuff and thinking they were totally wrong. Ellie, was that you? I think it was right. Yeah. They were totally wrong. They're getting everything wrong. Nothing's happening, nothing's going well. And actually, it turns out everything that Allie was picking up on was for me.

I wasn't in the group yet. So this is such a huge, important piece of information that you wouldn't have remembered or even. Taken into account if you hadn't have write, written it down. So this is why I have, I mean, even for myself, like I write things down because it's so easy to get into the mental soup of like, Oh, I suck.

I'm making this up. Like, And, and, and again, the, the hits come in like so fast. Like they're like, and they're gone. And then they might come in again, but they're still fast. And it takes that awareness to slow down and be like, Oh, actually that was something that I got. And not just like, Oh, I just had an itch.

Or like, you know what I mean? So it's so cool that it just can come together in ways that we really don't understand and don't expect until later than when we get the validation and we realize, ah, I did it. But aside from that too, Allie, before the, before we discovered that it was for me, I still gave you a huge high five because by tuning in the practice, the setting intention, the putting attention on, looking in the fridge to see what's there listening and just staying in observer mode to see what comes in, that muscle will start to get stronger.

And the trust muscle is also something that's being worked out at the same time too. So that's, that's my big share. I'm so excited for everybody. Well done.

Yeah. Let's have a couple of volunteers share their experience. Uh, any crazy like session where you picked up on something for someone or vice versa and you're like, Can't believe this happened. Or Call for Sylvia Popcorn style. Let's just shout out Mar Mariana. Marianne. Let's do Maryanne and Ashley. Hi.

Um, yeah, well this just happened right before we left group said, Is anyone here like related to dance? And I. And, uh, dance is, has been like such a big part of my spiritual growth. So it just like meant so much that she mentioned that even though she saw ballerina and I'm not professionally trained in, it's still like just made so much sense.

Oh, okay. So, so you're breaking up a little bit, but I think what you're saying is you're a professional dancer and someone picked up on that. Someone asked or are you a dancer?

Right. It's breaking up. I'm so sad. Yeah. June. June, and it was actually myself. Sorry. Uh, Maryanne. It's cuz you're breaking up. Um, so it was actually myself.

I was the one who, um, when we would like taking, um, uh, time to, you know, like figure, like pick up what. What we saw or whatever. All I kept seeing was like, uh, a ballerina and like a room full of mirrors with a piano. And so I wrote it down, but that was all I kept seeing. And so I wrote it down and I put a question mark next to it.

And so while everybody was talking, um, uh, and, you know, sharing their stuff like, it, it still kept like, like hammering at my mind. Like, like the ballerina, the ballerina, the ballerina. And so then I was like, Who's a ballerina? or, or a dancer? Is anybody a dancer? And that's when she was like, uh, Maryanne says, said, Oh, I dance, I'm not a ballerina, but I'm a dancer.

And so I was like, What ? And so I didn't have my, my camera on cuz the one on my computer, I don't, I cannot for the life of me get it to work. So, um, it was very unfortunate that she, they couldn't see me and, and all that stuff. But I, I wanted to share that with her. And so, And I was really glad that I, that I got it cuz like it was like clear as day.

Like I saw it, I heard it. Um, you know, it wasn't on the like, right on the nail, but it, like, for her it felt very mind blowing. And even for myself, I was like, there ain't no way . Yeah. And it all takes a lot because dance has been like a very big part in my spiritual growth. So it just all made up like sense.

So it's amazing. I actually saw, um, a ballerina as well when I was tapping into the energy. Um, but I was tapping into a specific person's energy and I just kept seeing her dancing in a pirouette. Like I couldn't see this person's face on it, but I saw the figure of it and just continuously dancing and like, I just gave such a form of elegance and grace.

And when I went back to discuss with the group, then the person I had intended it for, their child actually is in ballet classes. And that was really cool for me to connect like that. Wow. Beside what, how Sylvia said it builds that trust muscle because I'm so new to this as well, and this definitely gave me a little bit of a boost recently.

Like I felt hearing these things or seeing these things and I was going a little bit, um, doubtful of myself, of what's happening to my mind. But then honestly, hey, June, this session couldn't cut. Like, have come at a better time in terms of alignment because this is great for me to build a trust muscle.

Nice. Every, nothing's a coincidence. Um, thank you for sharing. Ashley. I think you were next. Yeah, mine was like, it wasn't anything that I picked up. Yeah, that I was with the group with Joslyn and Maryanne, um, Allie and Oie, and she, I don't remember which one it was. I think it was Amy who said that she picked up a test coming up, like some, if she asked if somebody's taking a test and I'm actually getting licensed soon, so I have to take three very important tests.

And it was like really stressful. And then Maryanne was like, Oh, that's crazy. Well, I think it's gonna go really good for you because I see like you celebrating and being happy. And I was just like, That's so mind blowing that like, wow, like that hit the nail on the head for me. Like what? so specific too.

That is very specific. What, what else do you guys,

She left the room, but someone, um, it was Madea, someone. Oh, it was Leah, right? Leah, You pre not predicted. Sorry. You read something for my dad that was spot on. I think you mentioned something about relationships and dating. Yeah, I said I think she's either going through a heartbreak or a falling out with friends and there's gonna be like a change in her social life in a romantic life.

And then she said that she had a breakup about 30, I think six days ago. And then one of her friends that she thought was close, she had a falling out with. Yeah. See that's very specific. Can I ask you what senses were coming in for you with those? So I would say, I mean, this isn't new for me. I just, this is one of those things like I just thought everyone had until I found out no one did it.

Yeah. And whenever I meet someone, I just, I read them in the present, so clear, cognizant or whatever, whatever it's called. So how I know, I just know. Yeah. And. It's just kind of like that. I just know it in the moment and once they're not with me anymore, it's gone. I don't really think about it. It just comes to me and that's it.

Fair, Totally fair. But the more, the more that you're able to notice when it's happening, the more in control of that you will be, so that you're not also stepping on other people's energetic boundaries as well. Cuz that's a whole other thing. And actually, hey June, I think energetic boundaries and hygiene is going to be key for next time.

Mm-hmm. , well done. Yeah. I've been hearing the word energetic hygiene and I have no idea what it is. Very intriguing, like taking a shower and brushing your teeth, but for your energy body, it's just as important. Mm-hmm. Yeah, for all the non-energy people in the room, you know, manifestors, reflectors, projectors, even mgs, really important to practice that because you're constantly taking in people's energy all day long.

So it's important to discharge. Um, I was, I don't know if there's any other crazy stories, but I was gonna share one cool thing. Um, connecting this to human design, I believe, hang on a second, I just had it up. What is wrong with me? Um, there are specific gates that can kind of like connect to intuition. So if you have gate, and I bet Sylvia has this, I'm willing to bet my money cuz a lot of mediums do.

If you have, if you have Gate 57, if it's an active gate, and we covered this about two sessions ago, we also had an office hour. The office hour replay is available, just so you guys know. And the member portal, if you have Gate 57, if you have 61 43. Um, those are pretty intuitive gates, just so you guys know.

So everybody has this, but if it's an active gate, it's, it's more readily accessible to you. Just fyi, Sorry, what were the gate memories again? 57, 61, Um, 43. And there are some other, there's some other ones too, but those are like the main ones that are on top of my head. Mm-hmm. . So. Okay. So, um, Sylvia, it sounds like for next session you wanna talk about energy hygiene.

Yeah. That's pretty crucial tools to have in your toolbox. Yeah. Any other questions? Um, for Sylvia, you guys also just, how are you feeling? You can either ask a question or that's just how you're feeling or both? Just popcorn style.

Um, I loved this exercise cuz I never really, um, tried to like read anybody, you know, it's just not something that I do in terms of like actually telling them what I'm reading and then having them affirm or say whether it resonates. So we kind of went through each individual in our group and, um, I just thought it was wild how we got a lot of overlapping messages because we were kind of focusing our messages on one person at a time.

Um, and so that was a thrill to have, you know, the same message came through for two people, or, you know, it was a hybrid of my other two partners for the one person. So that was, you know, something that was really cool, just personal experience too, as well as I hope it obviously helped them hear, to hear the message too.

So yeah, it's a win-win all around. In my group, uh, I received the same message by two different people. So two different people saw a similar vision for me and it was one person saw like a big large energy around me, and in the middle she saw the word powerful and then another person saw like light in the darkness, so I guess encompassed in darkness.

And then she said she got the word strong. And I'm definitely going through some kind of transformation in my personal life and getting the same message by two different people just reaffirms it for me. So this has been so great. I'm hoping that we can do this again. Yay. I'm so happy.

I know we always want more time when we're doing this kind of stuff. I, like I said, I could do this all day. Yeah. And also like I just wanna, I just wanna say like one thing that Sylvia said really stood out, which is about like increasing your muscles or strengthening your muscles. Cause I noticed from room to room, I noticed some people might just like say one sentence and that's all the information they got.

Whereas like somebody else could just go on and on and on and they just keep getting details. So the more you like practice, you will be able to get more details over. 100%. 100%. And also, I also was mentioning in some of the rooms that I, when I first started, I would get like a word or a color like it.

It was not this whole symphony of like senses and information coming in. It was absolutely not that at all. And it was very much a process over like a decade plus of actively learning and working this muscle. So it's available to everybody. It's, we are all a soul. It's just a matter of repetition and intention and integrity too.

And knowing, learning how to work our body. Like, just like how, you know, babies learn how to walk. We have to learn how to walk in this style as.

Yeah. And this, and, and I, I don't think I do a good job explaining this stuff, but being intuitive will help you out, even in your job, even, even in your corporate job and your relationships. It's going like I used to, I, when I was at my sales job, like I would just know who would call me that day, like, which client?

So then I can like, prepare reports like in advance. Um, that was really helpful just to help me save time. So this is totally applicable, like in your own day to day in your professional life. So start practicing that question. Um, are there any exercises we can do on our own? I would start with what we talked about today, getting quiet.

Mm-hmm. setting and intention, and then just seeing what, what comes in. Like even if you set a timer for like five minutes every single day to just see what's in the fridge. That's enough. To, to start seeing results. And again, it's a little bit easier to have this partner work, to have the validation so that you know, Oh, I didn't just make it up.

I'm not just, you know, making, making them step up. I'm not just totally wrong, you know, I'm not crazy. Having that validation is really helpful as well. So if you are tuning in just for yourself, writing it down and having a record that you can refer back to, Oh, that's what that was talking about. Or like, writing down your dreams is another way that people have developed.

Right? Uh, that's another way Clair Boyan, uh, can start to show itself. Um, writing things down will help you put things together once the validation comes in later on. It could be next week, it could be an in a month. You won't know until it actually happens.

Thank you. Mm-hmm.

Okay. I think as usual we went over, um, my. Challenge to you guys is to connect with each other over Discord. I'm hell bent on y'all using that thing at some point. Please go to channel 57 or Gate 57, look for somebody who has that gate and be like, Yo, I need help tapping in or whatever. Or like practice reading for each other.

It's open. Everybody's on it. If you're not on it, DM me on Discord and I'll put you on it and just buddy up. Okay. What is the dis No, it's um, it's the PHS Discord where you can, like, it's, it's, the Discord is public, but there's a private group just for you guys where you guys can connect. Um, it's on the member portal, like there's instruction, like how to get access to it and so they'll be back.

Can somebody guess, uh, what. Sylvia's human designers. So don't pee cuz I already put it in the chat. did is here.

Reflector? I did

Is here. Reflector? No, No. With guest though.

Projector. Joanna. Got it. Joanna got it. Yeah. I'm a manifestor. I have that. 57, 51. What is it? Right angle. Cross of penetration. 57, 51. You have, So you have 57, right? Mm-hmm. . See, I fucking knew it. Like every, not every, but most mediums have that. It's like the tongue, the dead kind of a thing. How do you find those numbers?

Okay, so for everyone that. We had a human design session two, three weeks ago that was a little too advanced, so I held an office hour. The office hour recording is in the member portal. Um, please go watch it. There's also like a cheat sheet, like a downloadable, all the things, um, that will give you a really good human design, one on one like layman's terms.

And by the way, just because you don't have 57 does mean you can't connect to dead. Like someone like Sylvia, like she already has that active in her, but you can practice and activate that in your own life by doing sessions like this essentially. Um, but yeah, it's, it's go get your free human design report on, I don't know, human design.com, and then look to see if you have gate 50.

And hey Jean, before we wrap up, I wanna make sure everybody closes down their energy centers and everything. Um, so everybody just take a deep breath, shake everything out. The stupider, the better, the sillier, the better. Blah. You can even dust yourself off like that. We're gonna say, I take back my energy and I give you back yours.

And then just imagine that all your energy that you just shared with everybody is coming back to you like a little magnet and everybody else's energy that's not yours is going back to them like a little magnet. And then maybe pot yourself down to kind of seal everything up and you're good. You should be good.

Again, little, uh, little parting rules. Don't tune into anybody without their permission. Um, really important. And um, gosh, I had one more thing, but that was it. , it just went away. I was busy patting myself. Yeah. Thank you so much, Sylvia. This was so much fun, intuitive. I hope everybody had a great time and please practice, you know, solidify this, um, hearing about it is not enough.

Let's practice it. Okay, Awesome. Oh yeah. Thank you so much everybody. Thank you. Bye. Bye.
