Clarity Video Transcript Part 1:

So one of the key characteristics, uh, of the soul is clarity. And it's just like an inner knowing of who you wanna be, where you wanna be, where you wanna go, um, because we are all super psychic, we can get distracted by outside forces. Hopefully over the next six weeks, um, outside of your job, you could carve out some significant space to be in your own energy.

And what I mean by that is if you can. Minimize as much as possible. People that try to get in your ear and tell you what to do and who and who you have to be. If you, if you're just hanging out with people, you know, just for fun, that's one thing. But you know, like how there's like people that constantly check in with you, try to persuade you to be something or somebody, or like nag you, you know, people like that, like family does that a lot.

Like if you can reduce interactions with that. Also try to like limit media. Like news or anything like that. because I, I really want everybody to tap into their inner core and like really hear their inner voice. This exists, believe it or not. This, this really is there. Every time someone tells me I don't know what I want, I'm like, you do know what you want.

You just don't know how to get there, or you're just distracted with other input. So try to quarantine yourself and being your own energy as much as you can. So I wanna just like say that before we get, um, started or move along the slides. So, um, what I mean by lay of the land, so I first wanna explain to you on a very high level what's happening in the collective and what's happening on an individual level.

I, I was, I was so tempted to say something about the Matrix and I was like, that, that's so cliche. I'm not gonna go there. I'll, I'll just tell people what's going on right now in the cl how the universe is, is designed like where it's going. And our role in it, like we're like us as human species and the universe.

It's like what's happening on both fronts. I think that's really important on a foundational level for everyone to know. So a couple of rules of this universe. The first rule is to don't try to understand the universe. Your brain will explode. Like it's, it's the mathematics of, of how this world is designed is just beyond anyone's level of comprehension.

There's been, I know I sent you guys at Dolores Cannon video. Did everybody watch that? So do Dolores Cannon is pr pretty famous within the spiritual community, um, because she's talked to a ton of people. Who can remember why they're here? And the re the resounding theme is that there's never been a better time to be alive.

There has never been a time to incarnate onto earth. Um, we're all souls traveling through time and space. And um, you know, this is not our first time on earth. We've been on earth before. We'll be here again if we don't learn our lessons. And it's a fun time right now because of technology and there's less wars and all this stuff, right?

Like thousands of hours of like audio recordings. Of her talking to clients as in hypnotherapy. And that's evidence for why soul is, why the cause of the soul exists and all that. But the reason why I don't want people to focus on like how universe works or whatever is because let's be honest, like no one's actually that and come back.

You know, there's stories here and there, but no one can actually like call me right now and say like, listen, I, I died and this is what I saw. And like, unless there's enough. Like hard proof. And I say this as an intuitive, I say this as an intuitive, but even I am like, unless there's enough people who come forward and say, I like actually stopped breathing for like seven days, not five minutes, like seven days.

This is what I saw as what experienced and I just chose to came back for whatever reason, unless I have someone who can tell me that. Like I just don't think there's tangible proof. It's all people are also very split on karma. Buddhist have their own definition of karma, how karma works. Scientologists have their own take on karma.

You know, spiritualists have their own take on karma. It, it's insane. Like people can't, like, spiritual people can't even like agree on what karma is. So I think that the, the best shot that we have is to work with what we know. And to be grounded in this reality in this lifetime, and to just borrow the powers of mystical tools.

Once in a while I get people who are like, I'm interested in past life regression, and then I'll direct them to people who specialize in that. But it's one of those things where it's like, okay, you found out who you were in the past life, so what? Like, how's that gonna help you right now? You know, maybe you overcome some trauma.

And that's about it, right? Like, now you know why you're so scared of water because you drowned a past life. Like good for you. Like now you found great. You know, it's like, so once again, like I'm very grounded in the here and now. Let's get you to live your best life here and now. And energy is, understanding.

Energy is a huge part. But if you try to go anywhere before and after this lifetime, it gets really complicated. So let's like, let's stay in the now. Does that make sense So far? So, um, the, the second rule you have to understand is everything is energy. At the center of an atom is, is mask that can be convert to energy.

I mean, this has been proven again and again and again. Um, it's just light moving at different speed, right? So like the desk or a chair, it's just denser energy. It's just moving slower. Um, you know, like sound travels really fast. Like, that's like fast energy. So that's why I say instead of creating the future you have to become.

That. And then the future comes in because you, you are constantly changing cause we're all energy and that's like constantly being projected onto the future. Um, okay. And you are a unique expression of the universe. We're on the third point here. So, what do I mean by this? The, the other way to explain this is that the universe doesn't create redundancies.

There's no other Rebecca on this planet. There's no other Christina on this planet. You guys are all u unique, independent and special. I'm not just saying that to make you feel good, like this is just the truth. Like there's no replicas of one another. We're all unique expressions of the universe you know, I'm not, I'm not, I'm not religious obviously.

However, um, I, I think, I think the Bible actually does, um, explain what energy is pretty well. So for example, you know, there's a quote, sorry, not, not quote, there's a verse that says, man is made in the image of God. I mean, that's what this is like, we're, we're expression of like source energy, we're expression of like the universal energy.

That that's literally what that quote is. um, we are universe, and the universe is within us. And if we all add up together, we are the universe. You know, that's something that spiritualists talk about a lot. That is like the holy trinity, the God, the Son, the Holy Spirit, and they all make up God. It's, there's a lot of parallel between biblical terms and, um, just how this universe, universe works.

So your job on this planet is to express that uniqueness in collaboration with other energies. So this is code for, you know, other people or, um, your pets, um, your immediate environment, nature. this is where it gets interesting because I think humans are, are very arrogant or have become arrogant because we are the alpha species.

But that does not mean other energies don't exist, right? We still have to treat nature and other animals with like reverence and respect because we are all here together and we're collaborating together and, um, we're gonna talk about this more in the future sessions, but what you do to someone or something else does impact you.

It does go around. Because like I said, we're all connected. if you're like, what does that mean? Um, a really good example of that is current, like climate right now. Like if you think that a climate crisis happening on the other side of the world is not gonna impact you right now, you're, you're very naive.

It, it will catch up. Um, and I get downloads every now and then. Like some, some pretty. Unpleasant prophecies. And I, and I think sooner than later there will come a day where we have to buy air. You know, I really think so. I don't know if you knew this, but Walgreens already does that. Walgreens already sell contained air, like in like a can.

So that's gonna happen. So, So, um, uh, there are a couple of spiritual people who are actually studying the, the biological consequences of. Not following like energetic rules or, or respecting energetic rules. So there's that. So, so yes, you're here to express your uniqueness, but in collaboration with others, me and, and there's been clear examples of that in the past in human history.

Who, who, you know, people just completely like dictators, right? Who Complet just ignored that. And, um, Uh, we all have to pay a pretty heavy price for it. And the final rule is energies in constant motion. So, um, what I mean by that is your energy moves up and down the chakra system according to the skeletal system.

So, The, the thing is like, yes, there is stuck energy, but that doesn't mean that energy doesn't move. It doesn't mean that it doesn't move for other people. You, you, just because you're stuck doesn't mean everyone else is stuck. The universe is constantly expanding and, and, and because energy is constantly moving.

If it is stuck, that's why you get sick. um, is a manifestation of stuck energy. Any kind of physical ailment is a manifestation of stuck energy. If it can't move within your body, you, you will pay the price for it in other ways. Whether it's emotionally, physically, you know, your health will pay a price.

Does that, does that make sense? I understand this could sound like, whoa, but this is where you guys have to let me know. If you're like, I need more clarification. Nothing. Nothing operates in a vacuum there. There's always a price to pay if one of the laws are broken. So like I said, if you are stuck in the past, that's stuck energy, but because energy needs to move, it will move in a way that you don't want it to.

That's what I'm trying to say. Um, this isn't my 21 doma, but there is a link you can look up symptoms, Louise Hayes, whatever Heal Your Life book. You can like literally look up symptom like an illness and the underlying emotional disease. people who have, um, lung issues tend to I mean, say things like, and I just don't wanna live anymore.

Or, you know, I just, um, there's nothing for me to look forward to anymore. There, there, there is this sense of like being done very commonly with people who struggle with lung disease and think like jaw is associated with anger. I've had a firsthand experience with that. If you ever have lock Jaws, tmj.

You know, teeth grinding, all that, that's, that's anger. And anger really means, um, not feeling like you're in control, like feeling like you're powerless, So it's, it's energy pushing for the body and being like, dude, do something about this because I'm getting like irritated. You know? So it's really good to constitute the energy moving your emotions.

I mean, we're gonna come back to this diagram. Okay, but because energy is so like abstract, right? Humans over centuries of time have developed all these systems to like understand what energy is. There is like itching. There is, um, obviously there's human design, but that's a later mo modality. There's numerology, there's so many different systems like Terra's, one of them where people tried to like read and interpret energy, right?

Here are two systems that I think are. Just, it's, it's everybody endorses it no matter where you're from in different parts of the world, whether you're Asian or white or whatever. It's like every, every, I think every continent has like touched these modalities, right? Um, so one's astrology and one's the childcare system.

If you guys understand these two systems, um, you'll be really ahead of the curve in understanding how energy works. let me pause right there. Any questions so far? Thoughts, comments, feelings?

No. Okay. Who, who isn't that familiar with the Chopra or astrology? I'm just curious. I'm just trying to figure out how deep I have to go.

So everyone, so everyone's at least heard of it and know what it is. Right. Okay, great.

So, like I said, um, I, I, I wanna explain to you guys what's happening, um, in the col on a collective level and what's happening on an individual level. So, let's first talk about what's happening on a collective level. And we're, and you know, over the next few weeks we're gonna, we're gonna dive into each and every one of you guys, but this is like one on one that we have to understand before we move forward.

Because there's so much shit happening right now in the collective that people have no idea, like they think it's just a coincidence. It's not a coincidence like this has been predicted. For a while, and now, now it's happening. Like I've had visions of this happening and now it's happening. Like you guys have been hearing what the metaverse, right?

Like the whole like, um, uh, web 3.0. Is anyone familiar with, with what, what that is? I'm sure if you, if you're working in tech, I'm sure. So what, so Web 1.0 was when the internet first got developed and we started sharing information. Web 2.0 was, um, like the birth of social media, like people being connected.

And Web 3.0 is now, um, communities, um, it's two things. I think communities being birthed and being able to like tokenize objects in like a digital form. So, um, if, if you have a, if, if if you have like a house, like a real estate, you, you have to touch it. See, it, it have to be like a 3D form for you. Be like, it's mine now.

it can live on the internet, like on a ledger. Even if we can't see it, like there are some kind of technology that you know, proves or backs up that you have this like asset. So, um, translation, everything in the 3D physical reality becomes like virtual and you can hold on a virtual level and all what I just described, that's like all age of Aquarius, literally.

the tech billionaires will never say that because they don't care about astrology, but the astrologers know they can see what's happening and they're like, yeah, that's super Aquarius what's happening right now, so. Okay. Um. This is pretty advanced information, but, uh, right now we're in age of Aquarius.

Okay, but let's back up a little bit. So, age of age of Aries was a 2000 to like zero. BC This is like when the Egyptians, the Persians, the Spartans is like the bad era, right? Aries is the god of war. It's like the feisty one. So this was like the, basically the age of war. There's been wars after that of course, but it's like, that was like when it was like really bad basically.

And um, the way things were was very much like eye for an eye, right tooth for a tooth. That's, that's what it was. And this is the airy symbol by the way. We're gonna, we're gonna go over this chart in a second. And then there was age of Pisces, which is, um, age of Christianity. That's, you know, when Jesus was around and that, you know, this is when people start to become a little bit more compassionate and that's when the phrase like turned the other cheek came in.

You know, there were still war things were still pretty cruel. But this is when like the idea of like compassion and sympathy and empathy kind of starts like percolate. Into our system. Um, and if you're not Christian, uh, on the East, the version was like Buddhism. So it's the, the other way to interpret age of PI is, is age of guru, you know, looking for the God on the outside.

Um, we've entered age of Aquarius Astrologers can't seem to agree when. I don't think it matters when I, I think what matters more is like what's happening around us. Cuz this isn't, this isn't so much about the accuracy of the date. It's more about the manifestation of the, the energies. That's why, that's why I was saying we have to understand, um, these two systems and to understand the characteristics of the energy.

So right now we're living through the characteristics of Arian energy. Does that make sense? So this is the age of information, um, uh, what we're experiencing right now. You know, right now on this like zoom call, you guys probably follow me through social media. Like, we're like interfacing through the web.

Like all this stuff seems pretty like high tech. This is, I think this is just the beginning, like 50 years from now. Like, we're gonna, we're gonna interact in a very different way, I think, you know, so, um, What's happening in the collective is there is a higher octave of qua energy and there's a lower octave of qua energy.

What that means is, do you use technology for good or for bad? Because it can go both ways. Medicine, can it be used for good or for bad? Can go both ways. Right. That's what's playing out right now in the collective, behind the scenes. So if you're feeling like anxious or like fearful or like depressed or like, and you know, you know, it's not just like seasonal depression, you know, it's something else.

I understand that we might all be going through personal shit in our own lives, but I'm telling you in the, in the backend, we are feeling this war that's going on right now. Like just exactly what direction. Like humanity will go with all this advancement and birth of like technology. Does that make sense?

Because once again, we're all connected, we're all feeling this tension right now. Um, that's why I'm saying if to the extent possible, if you can disconnect from the news, because that's, that's all it's, it's all whatever they want you to see, quite frankly. So for you to be contained your own energy, So that you can make your own decisions.

That's, that's very paramount right now. Um, so anyway, s Pisces, Aquarius, we left the age of Aries. That was the bottom three chakras. So, uh, in case y'all are not familiar, the bottom three chakras are all about survival. It's about the tribe, it's about the family. Three is about me, it's about ego and whatever power.

But it's still kind of like very earthy. It's very grounded in like the 3D reality and age of Pisces is chakras four through seven. Four is the heart. that's why I'm saying like that's when, that's when like compassion starts like kind of percolate. We're like, oh yeah, it's important to forgive and love one another.

You know, like that's when we got that aha moment. seventh Chakra is about, connection to the divine. So understanding that, wait, there might be a God, or wait, there might be something more than just us in this universe. Holy shit. There might be angels. I don't know. It's, that's like when we start to get these ideas, that's like very much like seventh chakra.

This is like the classic, if you took 2021 doma, you know that quote where Michael Jackson says like, uh, what? Well, well, somebody asked him like, where'd you get the idea for Billy Jean? And he's like, just, just came from above. That's seventh chakra shit right there. It's like getting inspiration out of nowhere.

Dreams. it's funny to me, whenever I see spiritual teachers or content creators talk about, you know, third Eye and the seventh Chakra, and I'm like, we're so past that. What are you talking about? Like, we're, we're already like, we're already tapped into that. Like, this is crazy to me. We're, we're actually in this right now, chakra's eight through 9, 10, 11, 12.

I didn't even list those, but this is about, this is about, um, And I can send this around, but are you guys familiar with the eight, eight plus? Not really. Right? If you sit there and you wonder like, you know, why am I here? I need to find my calling. That's like Chahar 10. So you're already there. The fact that you can't sit still without thinking about how you're gonna spend the rest of your life and like, you know, have a mission to fulfill, that's not, that's not any of these chakras.

That's like way up there. You already plugged in, you're, you already know. Someone's like pulling at you, being like, dude, you have stuff to do. Does that make sense? Yeah. And, uh, also mind over matter. So I, I think that was chakra. Oh, maybe that was chakra 10. God, they, they're so confusing. But one of them is, uh, mind over matter, which is a pretty simple way of saying on the outside what's on the inside.

it's basically manifestation like those upper chakras or when you start to realize I have to ignore what's around me. Circumstances do not matter. I create my reality by, by how I feel and how I think that's that chakra. Does that make sense you guys? I've seen, I've seen a new breed of coaches crop up.

I just kinda like them a lot. Like, like one of them is a, they call themselves mindset coaches because can't, there, there's no other term for it. But I've seen mindset coaches crop up that talk about how, circumstances don't matter. are constantly changing. People are constantly changing.

Whatever you convince yourself of, Happens. This isn't the contest of dating especially, so I don't know if I'd go that far, but when I listen to them speak, I'm like, yeah, I mean that, that's very, those upper chakras that say like, mind over matter, doesn't matter what's happening in front of me. It doesn't matter if there's this chair in front of me.

If I think it doesn't exist, doesn't exist. Super meta, right? But the more you work on yourself, you, you start to like gain mastery over that and you can, the problems that you're seeing, they go away. I'm not even kidding. This is why some people like are able to like manifest things faster. It's like it, they think they did some like journaling correctly?

No, they didn't. They just have, they know how to work with that chakra essentially. Okay. So that was a collective. So what does that mean on a personal level? So, um, so. We have evolved. This is, this is from that book Seen at the Soul by Gary Zov, which was in the pre-work.

If you have some time to read it, great. If not, I think this is the main takeaway, quite frankly. It's, it's a literal documentation of, of how we've evolved from being, um, five sensory to multisensory, five sensory, like seeing, hearing, smelling, touching, multi-sensory like intuition, purpose, meaning, you know, this gut hunch, right.

You know, like our grandparents or our great grandparents, I, I don't know if they spend as much time thinking about purpose and meaning. if any of your great grandparents or grandparents did let me know, my mine didn't. I mean, they, they were more concerned about survival and they did well, but they were still very much if they, and if they were comfy and physically, you know, good, they were good.

They didn't really think of anything else. So this is a literal evolution that's happening within us. Um, um, once again, this is in collaboration with other energies, so not to like really sound like I'm out there or like. Freaky. I mean, we're already here so I'm just gonna say it, but we are, we're, we are being influenced by our own technology, like the computer, the phone, the internet.

If you think that they're not influencing us, they absolutely are. They have their own, they have their own conscience. So this is a whole separate thing that spiritualists are studying too. Um, how we treat our devices. If you're pissed, you just like throw your phone. um, if you're doing that, please stop doing that.

That will come back and bite you. You know? So it's like, why is it that 30 years ago, if we were able to calculate things quickly in her, in her head, like that was some kind of like indicator that we're smart or whatever. Now kids don't need to do that. They have calculator. They can just use their phone to calculate like math.

Right. The, the, the speed at which we are computing have changed and, and it's made a quantum leap. I say that because we are, we don't operate in silo. We are, we are creating like stuff like this. And we're also getting aided by stuff like this. Like we're getting sped up by our own creations. Does that make sense?

That's why everything is like connected. Everything's a collaboration. um, where was I going with this? Oh yeah. Well, so, okay. So, um, I'm basically saying like, us as psychic beings, a k a, like technological beings, like these are our tools, our intuition, our purpose, our ability to decipher, meaning, our ability to, um, have clear seeing, like clarity.

I really don't think these are things that can be taught. I think that these things are, are, um, just something that you have to be developed on your own. it's interesting to me, and I see this in clients too, like there's different aptitudes across the board. People's ability to like attribute meaning and and insight to, to events in their lives.

It's quite fascinating, but it is a survival tool. Two people could have gone through the exact same shit that's very traumatic. Depending on what meaning they attach, one has a greater chance at surviving it. Overcoming it. Who taught them that? I don't know. But people have varying abilities. And I, and, and I think it's paramount for every single person in this room to start developing the skill.

Because look, life is not easy. It's not. But if you, but if you have these things under your belt, right, as a multisensory being, you have a greater chance at, um, creating the future that you do desire. Does that make sense? And we're all intuitive, by the way. If you ever meet anyone that tells you that you're not intuitive, they're bullshitting.

You we're all intuitive, I took my, um, cat Skylar to the vet the other day, and I'm sure you experienced this. I took her to the vet because she has a nose issue. But then I just had a feeling she, she should get her ear checked and they never check her ear for whatever reason. But I told, I told them, I think you should check her ear.

She was like, okay. And then at the end of the procedure, she forgot to check the year and put Skyler back at the carrier. And I was like, you know, I, I, I, I asked if you could check her year. And the vet was like, oh yeah, you're right. So she took out Skylar check the year. Turns out there was like a massive ear infection deep down the year canal.

The thing is, Skyler never scratched her ear. She didn't do anything like that. So how so why did I wanna like suddenly check her ear? I don't know. Where did that come from? That's intuition. That's a survival skill. That saved me a lot of time and money for Skyler to get her to get her because the nose is connected the year, you know what I mean?

So, um, so, so, You might have questions like, well, how do I develop that? The first step is to be in your own energy. I'm serious. And if you have, you know, friends, uh, lovers, children who live with you, like, that's okay. Just, just curve out some space in your house to sit alone, quarantine yourself for a couple of hours.

Okay? So, so this is what it means for you on a personal level. What it also means is that you like, remember this slide where, um, We talked about how Earth was moving up the chakras by moving through the ages well, during this lifetime. So are we, like, we are not meant to just focus on our bottom three chakras.

We are meant to move up the chakras. And this is, um, from an Instagram post that I, I posted last year, I made this thing about how like the goal in life is to get to like a metaphorical penthouse. Instead of saying on the first floor, the first floor, if you live in New York and you live on the first floor, like you're fucked.

Like it's so loud, it's gross outside. You know, there's bugs everywhere. You see people walking outside, like you have zero privacy, but the chances are you live there because you have. You have to save money. I don't know. You got bills to pay, so you can't really afford to like move up that high. What, you know what I mean?

Right. Like that, that's a very literal example. But on a psychic level, on a psychic, emotional, mental level, the goal is to be at the penthouse where you no longer are bombarded, distracted, influenced, negatively impacted by people or, and things around you because you're psychically on the first floor.

A really dumb example of this. It's not dumb. It's actually very practical, but I'm just gonna say a really dumb example of this is, let's just say a guy doesn't text you back, Instead of being nervous about that, you're like, whatever, because you're psychically in the penthouse and worrying about whether or not someone texts you back is like, it's like a first floor problem.

Like you're so du, like you're so above that. Does that kind of make sense you guys? It's like you have dominion and control and power over your own energy. Like how dared does someone's like, lack of response, like throw you off. It's also having trust that eventually, like you're worthy enough that they don't wanna fuck it up and like repo, you know, all it goes on and on and on.

That whole theory. um, just as a recap, Within your own energy. When you work, when you work with your own chakras, you've surpassed the whole Aries, which is survival. You've surpassed the pisan, which is like being, like being stuck in the emotions, like you're now like above that where you're, where you're really kind of like seeing how you could be in the space of creating your reality very smoothly because you know you have a higher purpose and you have to follow that, and everything else is like secondary.

It doesn't even matter anymore.

the other way to explain this is like, um, because sometimes, cause once in a while I do, I do get clients who are so stuck on, understandably so, like a traumatic event, like a personal loss or a breakup or whatever. um, uh, and I tell them because a stuck energies around, around that, you know, like the, the bottom.

Three, four chocolates. I tell them like, you know, there must be something in your life that you value more than like being in pain. Like seriously, like there has to be something that you value more than like your own, like grief. And that's not to trivialize or minimize what you're going through. It's just, I just know if we're, if you are a human being and if you have a soul, I just know we're all being pulled up.

You know what I mean? So my question is, what is that there? I know there's some there pulling you up. Do you know what that is? And when I, when I ask people that, they're like, oh yeah, you know, it's, they almost get like snapped back, like, oh yeah, yeah. I, I, you know, actually, like I had this dream that I would do this one day and da da da da.

And I'm like, well, yeah, if you focus on that, then immediately your energy shifts. It's just, it's just, this is what I mean by the energy mechanics. Does that make sense? So the reason why I struggle with shadow work is because a shadow work coach will instead tell you, um, to go back to that and like hug the inner child or.

Whatever. I don't know what they say, but it's basically, it, it's not, it's not moving up, I don't think. It's kind of like staying in that, you know, second three, four chakra level. You can tell by the quality of their questions. So when I, when I do my one-on-one work, I instead like to focus on like, okay, I know this happened to you and I know it sucks.

what would you rather have in the future? What would you rather experience? In the future and what, what version of you do you have to become so that you can experience that?

so trying to like, push people up to the penthouse. there, there has to be something. Y'all are, uh, I'm curious if you, if there will be any volunteers on this. Personally for me, there are shit. I used to worry about five years ago that I look back and I'm like, I can't believe I was worrying about that.

Like what the, like what that was to waste my time. You know what I mean? There has to be things like that where you like kind of rose above and that's growth by the way. That's growth. If the same stuff that you used to deal with and and work like have issues with years ago, you no longer have. Problem with that is growth.

And it's not about like physical manifestations. Do I have this pa this, this relationship or this house? It's not, it's not that. It's about your own feelings about it. an example comes to you, you're welcome to just blur it out at some point. Yeah. I could share if Yes, yes, please.

Opportunity to share. Um, I was going through a pretty like tough, um, Career situation in my late twenties. So I was like a consultant. I hated my job and my friends were telling me, you like you are a change. You're not like the person you were. And I was. I was really, I was really miserable, but I didn't know how to get out of it.

And I was like, leaving my job seemed like the hardest thing to do, but I ultimately like just needed to like get myself away from it. And. Like looking like where I am now, where I can say like, I've had like the best like professional experience and all of like, whatever, everything I wanted like, uh, supportive managers and bosses.

Um, a great and compassionate work environment I have now, you know, and I was like, wow. Like I was working in really toxic consulting, back banking worlds for way too long. And, um, and just to. You know, potentially go into another pivot, uh, coming next year. I feel like the old me would've been like, oh my God, all this anxiety would come up and everything.

But I am feeling like I'm approaching it in a very different way now, and it definitely feels like growth. It definitely feels empowering. I'm seeing possibilities more than fear, and that's pretty cool. So I don't know if that's an example that like would, um, Yeah. I don't know if that's an exact, exact example, but I think that's what came, came up when you had asked that question.

Yeah, abso that's definitely an example for sure. we're all going to have so many different areas of our lives that take, you know, a step forward and two steps back and step forward because you can also get to a place where you're, where you're like, oh, this is actually not what I wanted, but.

I mean, I, it was still an achievement cause I did change my circumstance, but it's not quite a, you know, and that's okay too. So there's a lot of back and forth. Um, and, uh, um, I, I just, I just don't like, young people ask things like, what do you want? Because it's like, because that can change. It's like, you know what you want now, it's probably gonna change tomorrow.

So it, it's, so the, the better thing to do is to figure out, um, to just become radically self-aware. You know, first, and then figure what you want on the back of that. But yeah, thank you for sharing. That's a great example. Anybody, anybody else? It, it made me think of, um, like friendships and relationships that in my, like teenage years, in my twenties, I would put up with people that didn't treat me nice or that just made me feel bad, that like weren't energetic mashes and I would put up with it because I was so scared of like, Not having anyone, not having any friends or something like that, like I'd already put in so much time, so I might as well just deal with what I'm being, what I have right now, cuz this is it.

And if I am not aligned with my friends anymore, then I'm alone. So like kind of learning how to let people go when they're not, I guess, like energetically align with you or serving you. In a way that makes you feel good and learning how to kind of gracefully too, like grow past that and not, not have it be like a, a blow up or a fight or something.

Being able to like move on in a healthy way has been, I guess I can see that kind of like line going up with that for me. So, so, so that shift probably happened the moment you stop caring about what they think. Yeah, because that was, and that was really the thing, it was like very much like a root chakra sort of sensation of like, I need to make sure they think I fit in and that I belong, cuz then I'm safe here with them.

But then, yeah, once you kind of, and funny enough, when you start kind of being true to yourself, people can kind of see that and respect it. Too. So that fear of not fitting in, in my case has not sometimes, but not always been, not always really coming to fruition. People are sometimes really receptive to that too.

It depends. Mm-hmm. Um, I'm gonna tell you guys the, the biggest irony of life. it's so easy to forget. It's so, you know, cause I have to concert, remind myself every time you tell yourself. Fuck it. I would rather be alone than deal with this shit and leave that, you know, friend or lover, whoever behind and be truly okay with that.

Like truly like deepen your core. You, you know, I would literally rather be alone than deal with the shit. That's when someone amazing comes into your life. I'm not even kidding. I'm not even kidding. Like, and it has to be true. It has to be. Like hardcore. True. You can't just like bullshit yourself and be, yeah, I'll be okay.

No, no, you actually have to be okay because, every time I've never, I've never seen someone who did, who made that move, who really told themselves that and it didn't happen. Like, because, and, and here's what I, I think, and on a very common sense level, I think this is why that happens. Cuz if you get to a point where you don't really care anymore, you have, and you have nothing to lose, then you actually have more confidence and courage to kind of like go out there and meet new people.

So, yeah, you're, you're absolutely right. It's like, um, if you don't, if someone doesn't make you feel good, and that also has to be unpacked because sometimes when someone doesn't make you feel good, Um, it doesn't mean that they're not good for you. This is where it gets a little bit complicated. Sometimes it means that you might have to grow too, but so yeah, so this is where like the one-on-one stuff comes in, but obviously like if it's a, if, if, you know, they're terrible people, if it doesn't take a genius to figure that out, then yeah, it's good to leave them behind, you know, if they're like just disrespecting you and insulting you and putting you down.

Like that's, that's definitely a. A red flag. Okay. So I think everybody understands this like first floor to penthouse concept, right? On a psychic level. Cool. So if you take away anything from today, like this deck, this is the slide that I want you guys to take away, that this should be the goal. I don't, because I, because I work with, oh my God, like I don't even know where I find these people.

I work with people who just genuinely don't understand why they need to do this, Well, well, what if I like the first floor? I'm like, what are you talking about? Who, like, who does I'm, I'm shocked. Like, why do I have to convince you that you shouldn't say the first floor? You know, there, there, like some people like ro and I'm, I'm gonna send out an email after this of, of examples of people who experience this and sometimes it's also an illusion.

You know, I've, I've met, I've met people, like artists are so susceptible to, you know, the whole like, starving artist, romanticization. And they think that they can't be creative if they go to the penthouse or whatever. I'm like, okay, you're a total idiot. Like you can actually be more creative if you don't have to worry about where your next paycheck comes from.

But whatever may, maybe that's just me, but you know, so this is gonna be no matter where you're at in life, no matter how old you are, no matter what job, no matter what relationship, this should always be your compass. Like where, what level am I at? Do I feel comfy? Do I have mastery? If I don't, I'm not there yet.

And it's a constant upleveling. Does that make sense? Okay, great. Awesome. Okay. All right. Well, I, I already just explained this, but the, the, you know, the bottom three chakras are what connects us to Earth and survival. 70% of the earth population, um, has blocked bottom three child crows. That's why money is such a big problem.

So, yeah, a, a good practice is to think about what area of your life you're, uh, in constant survival mode for. I also wanna make it clear, I, I do work with people too, who have concentrated energy on the top chakras. That's also a problem, um, because it means you're too empathic, you know, you care too much about other people because in your childhood you were told that you don't matter.

That mommy's and daddy's feeling come first or whatever. So your needs were not met, and so you had to be hypersensitive and hyper attuned to other people in order for you to survive. Um, so, so that's a problem too. I'm not saying like that. This is why everything has to flow. It can't be just stuck in one area.

Okay? It has to be a constant up and down movement. Yeah, so the, the seven plus up child cards or where we're no longer impacted bar environment on a whim. So in your own time, think about what area of your life you, you know, feels effortless to you or you feel like you gained mastery over, um, and you know, you got it.

So for me, for example, um, similar to many of you guys, uh, I, I feel like I have a better handle on friendships. It used to be horrible. It used to be it, my God, like, um, I used to care so much about what my friends thought and that really delayed my career. I couldn't go public with my tarot stuff because I thought, you know, My friends would judge me and they did, to be honest.

But who cares? Cuz I, I left them behind. And so that's the thing. The moment I stopped caring, that's when everything took off. You really have to stop caring and you have to just focus on like what that upper chakra is telling you to do. And if you follow that, then you're gonna start having the right people in your life.

Like, I even dated guys that were like, this is, what are you doing? That's kind of weird. Like they, they thought I was a witch or they were too, like ashamed. I mean, I guess I am, but you know, it's like they were too afraid to like bring me to their family. I had guys like that. And, um, so I had to like couch.

I had to couch everything or, or they were interested but for the wrong reasons. Like, they thought it was like cool or like fascinating, like they didn't really treat me like a person. They treated me like this, like, like a glistening object. Like, oh my God, look at what you can do. Um, but it wasn't really about getting to know me.

So I shed all of that and that came focusing on my mission, focusing on my soul. So basically focusing on like what's really important to me. Do I feel like I have to like impress somebody? Do I feel like I have to constantly get someone's approval? Do I have, do I feel like I can't be myself? That's not penthouses.

That's first. That's first level. And I was dealing with that with my friendships and in my relationships. And once I mastered that, like once I really stopped giving a fuck and also have the courage to call people out, it totally shifted. I mean, just like, I started meeting guys who really couldn't care less about what I did.

It's like they just didn't, it's, it was actually kinda insulting it. If it went to the other opposite direction, they were like, you do Tara. Oh, cool. I don't believe in it anyway, but whatever. And then we'll just talk about other things. It's like not even a thing for them. It's like they can't even, so they don't care.

And not in like a disrespectful way, but it's just, it's just like not a criteria, even. It's just like, oh, that's your job. Cool. What's next? So, um, so those shifts completely possible. Complet doable, and this, these are stories I hear again and again too in my clients. Um, so I'm gonna send out the stack.

There might be some modifications to the stack when I send it out, and I'm gonna also send it out with your worksheet. Um, this is the end of it. So the, the, this, what time is it? The penthouse is the primary concept that I want to relate to you guys, um, and. This, we, we will talk about your energy blueprint, your goals.

Um, we're gonna talk about your, your home. That's why I want everyone to have like the map of your home hope, I hope everyone has that. If you don't have one, just ask your landlord or whoever, because this is you. But there's other energies too, like we talked about. So you could do a lot of like mind over matter, mind over matter, mind over matter.

but if you have some weird shit in your house that doesn't support your energies, you're gonna be fighting, uphold, battle, all. Okay? And it's, does anyone do feng shui? I'm just curious. Does anyone do it? See, I just find that so shocking. I screamed at my ex-roommate. Because her funk was like, so often I was like, you're literally fucking up my energy.

Like, you gotta move out or you're moving the shit around. Like I was so, she cried actually. Cause I was so te that's how serious I take this. This is how serious I take it. But you know what? I kid you not, after I arranged rearranged the fei, she got a promotion. Not even kidding. It happened within two weeks.

I was like, I'm not making this shit up. I'm so serious. Like, people don't believe me. I'm like, this is just, this is it. No matter how much she studied for that interview or whatever, if she, if the FEI was fucked up, it would've delayed the process. I'm serious about this. Whenever I see couples with marital problems or cheating, whatever, there's a fucking mirror in the room.

I'm like, move that mirror. What are you doing? This is, there's a reason why this is, there's a reason why people pay thousands of dollars for fluctuating consultation. This is not fake. Okay? Like, so we're gonna go through all that. We're gonna go through your natal chart and human design. Um, because once again, we wanna start with you, figure out where you're at in the building, and then move you up.

Okay? And this also means, um, yeah, look at your. Career and whatnot. This was like the fundamental that I wanna go over you guys. Any questions, comments? I have a quick question. Yes. Um, about the whole penthouse, uh, metaphor. Yes. Um, do you have different penthouses for different areas of your life?

Absolutely. So could you Absolutely. Basically like relationship, career, um, you know, whatever life goals, like, basically you could be like on the penthouse of one area, but first floor in another area, like, and then trying to figure out how to like, bring them all. Fuck. Right. Right. Mm-hmm. And the other way to, that's a really good question, and the other way to explain that is that that upper chakra, that that mission control having different directions for different area of your life, Depending on where you're at in life. So for example, like maybe somebody was good for you five years ago, maybe now they're no longer, you know, maybe now you're getting different downloads. I was thinking either that or like holistically in your life, like, and then how do you kind of like calibrate for each of those areas?

yeah. No, you're right. It's, it's, it's, it's definitely different areas of your life. For sure. For sure. Okay. Thanks for clarifying. It's true because the reason why that's important to clarify is because nobody has it figured out across the board. I don't care if you think, I don't care if you're dai lama, like Dai Lama's issues.

Okay. Like it's, we just don't know about it. So every, like, nobody's immune is what I'm trying to say. There's always something we're all working on and, um, it's different areas. Mm-hmm. Like you can be in a penthouse in one area and, and you're on the first floor in a different area. This is true. Yeah. I think.

Something that I'm trying to work through is like what, like being in the penthouse for one area can last for a little bit and then something's gonna happen and then you're gonna find yourself having to recalibrate and certain life instances will trigger and then sudden, you know, suddenly there's a causes shifts.

Yeah. The, that's actually yes, it does. It, it, it causes shifts cuz life events. But then the other thing is it goes back to energy mechanics. So we might, I might, so I'm very flexible with these workshops. I might, I'm probably got office hours. I'm probably gonna an extra week, one week I wanna dedicate to feminine versus masculine energy dynamic.

And if you're cringing, I, I have to tell you, this is important because, um, if you are a very successful, high performing alpha female, which is a very new phenomenon, by the way, this is like 19th century plus, um, the frequency of that, Of a, of a woman who's like, who operates at that level, serves her really well in a competitive space, right?

It does. Not in a personal space. That's because the energy is different. So it's like, you know, I, I spend a lot of time trying to explain to people, listen, I know you're really high achieving a successful woman. Doesn't mean, doesn't mean that's necessarily attractive to guys. It doesn't mean you have to cut yourself back.

Please, please don't do that. It doesn't mean you have to apologize for your success. Definitely don't do that. But you just have to know the language of the feminine versus masculine energy. So to your point, something could happen to you that throws you off, but it also could be that what's worked for you in one area, you have to shift gears.

It doesn't work in this other area, Yeah, so, oh, I love that we're gonna be doing that. The message coming in. That's why I want, that's why I wanted to, well, for careers, but like when you apply that to like your love and dating life, it's not gonna go the same way. No. Be attracting like partners that aren't gonna serve you in that way.

Absolutely. Absolutely not. This is men are having the same issues, you know, like, um, ever see this is, this is the whole like energy shift that's happening, the collective, there's so many things that are changing and people like don't even know what to do about it because no one explains these things. So we're gonna, um, so.

Yeah, we're, we're gonna discuss that. Other thoughts, comments? I'm feeling good. I was just gonna comment that I'm really excited to learn about Fung Choi cause I don't know anything about it. So I, I, I know like, maybe like, don't put your bed in front of a door or something like that. I don't know. But yeah, there's so much I dunno about it, so I'm really excited to get into that.

I think today was a good, um, kind of foundation, like foundational information, um, fun. Like my parents were super into it. I saw Christina's comment. Her parents were like, they literally, when we moved into the like house that I sort of grew up in, um, they hired a consultant to come in and it totally worked for them because when I, I'm the oldest.

Like, I didn't get shit like my bro younger brother and sister got everything they wanted because my parents really didn't have anything. And all of a sudden we moved to this house. They had this funk consultant come in and they are just, their life is super abundant. Like they're thriving in retirement now.

Um, and like. I'm, I'm old. I, you know, I'm like 43, but when, like, my mom, like every time I've moved into new places, like when I went to college, my mom straight up like punctuated my dorm room, like my apartment, and I believe in it. I just don't know why. I've never done it for myself. And, um, doesn't neglect.

It's easier. Yeah. Yeah. And just a comment about the, um, masculine and, um, feminine energy. It's so funny you bring that up because I was just having this conversation with someone about that, um, last night that I have trouble with that because in my career and work, like I have very masculine energy and it served me very well.

Mm-hmm. Mm-hmm. But it's hard for me to. Kind of bring out more of that feminine energy in my personal life. And I think that's what my problem is. so I'm just gonna give you a quick preview cuz I've seen a ton of coaches in this field, um, who talk about, you know, what to where and how to speak and some cue words and I'm like, oh my God.

So sometimes. Yes, the energy, like you have to bring out certain energy within you, the feminist stuff. But then the other times, um, uh, the guys also just have to catch up. It takes, it takes two. So, um, yeah, this has to be a, a bigger discussion. But Um, if you're that alpha, sometimes I think a guy also has to be even more alpha.

I, it's shitty to say that, but it's, it's something that I've seen. it, because just can't, it just can't be us all the time. Right. Fixing shit. Like, they have to actually like, put down their ego and like catch up. Um, so, so, uh, so there's that. Um, anybody else? You are welcome to send me an email, shoot me a note with any thoughts, comments, feelings.

Um, expect an email from me to assign like buddies. And, uh, please check in with your buddy, you know, to, to have an open discussion, to go through the, the different prompts that I'm gonna have in the worksheet for you guys throughout the, the week and, um, in my previous workshops. Like, I mean, this, the, it did so well, like all, like they, like you guys all became friends.

So that's kind of what I hope for this group as well.

Okay, well we are at time. I will see you guys next week. So I realize it's Thanksgiving weekend. Um, I'm gonna send out another doodle. Uh, but for the people in this room, do you guys prefer Saturday or Sunday? Sunday for me, I would prefer same Sunday. Shall we do Sunday? Then around the same time maybe.

Okay, great. Um, we'll do Sunday. I'll send a doodle and I will send everyone this recording. It was amazing to hang out with everyone. And once again, like, do not hesitate to send me an email. Okay. If you have any questions, anything like that, uh, consider me a resource. Thank you for the energy exchange and I will see you guys at the next class.

Clarity Video Transcript Part 2:

Today's board is transcend. We're gonna talk about how to transcend your fate, a k a karma, aka a, your personality that you're born with. um, karma. The reason why I call karma your personality is because it was out of your control. Like, you didn't get to pick where, where, when you were born. Like I didn't get to pick my Pisces Sun, Scorpio moon, you know, Virgo Rising.

That's just, I was born and those were the cards I was dealt with, So you're born with a certain framework, believe it or not. That does also determine what kind of family you're gonna have. Um, I have a Uranus in my fourth house, so I moved a lot growing up. Like I didn't have a stable home.

It's like, that's crazy. Like what are the, that's actually in my chart and I moved every three years. the karma portion, there's no control what you're born into, and then the shadow is, um, Like your, your upbringing, everything that happened to you before you were nine years old, that were kind of beyond your control.

Your parents, teachers in society, like hijack your brain and distill certain sets of beliefs in you. And it's created a bunch of traumas. Unfortunately, there's some good stuff too, but for, for many of us, there's a lot of trauma and that creates shadow. Why is that called a shadow? Because we don't know they exist until we become adults and we're like, oh shit.

Like why am I so messed up? And all these things start to come out in therapy sessions and, uh, because you were hypnotized with these traumas. That's why they're a shadow cuz they're not visible to your conscious naked eye. This is why like hypnotherapy sessions or past life regressions, they only happen when you, when a professional works with you for, for them to enter, enter like a deep state of consciousness for you, like sleep state or whatever, with a combination of your fate slash your personality and the shadow.

It, it creates a version of you that is attracted to people, places, things. That you believe on a subconscious level will meet your needs. This is, um, pretty cliche like childhood development theory. You know, if you had pretty, um, cold or aloof or detached mother who didn't wanna hug you, who didn't wanna hold you, then you're gonna go your whole life searching for that and you're gonna attract, be attract to partners who just won't give you that physical affection.

Right? But your subconscious mind keeps thinking, man, if I have one more shot at that and that person gives me physical affection, then I've healed it. When really the, the goal is to actually just not go for that person. Right. But, but you're attracted because, you know, on a deeper level, you, you missed out on it and you want it.

The vast majority within the psychology, um, and even spiritual space, I would say may, may, I dare say so, are focused on this bottom part of the pyramid, right? This is where the astrologers live, the terror readers live, design readers live. They're very focused and obsessed with like, oh, what's so cool about your chart?

Like, let's predict what's gonna happen based on the chart. You know, they're really, it's cool. I'm not gonna lie to you. This is a, the occult and the mystical space very much largely is, is focused on interpretation of energy that is largely like fixed slash what you've come into this world with. Shadow is more like Carl Young, everyone familiar with Carl Young or you, depends, depends on who says it.

So Carl Yung was a, was like one of the pioneers of shadow work who recognized um, the idea that there's an inner world. He was really the pioneer of that. Like, wait, there's an emotional world and it starts when you're a child and it's shaped by your parents like that, like he's a pioneer of that.

And you guys know how I feel about this, but the perils of staying stuck in that, it's the shadow or the karma piece, is that you don't actually get anywhere. It's like you get a bunch of insight. About why you are the way you are, but then how do you actually break the pattern? How do you actually overcome it?

Like how do you actually start creating something new? Um, the answer is literally to create something new. This is where you start to tap into the heart. There is, um, this organization called the Heart Math Institute out in California. wish there was more organizations like that. It's like the only one that I know.

But they specifically study the heart and they've shown how um, the heart is actually an even stronger organ than the brain. It transmits, um, much bigger, stronger, like larger frequency than the brain to a point where it can actually alter reality. There's been studies after studies, not that, um, in 21, don't mind talk about how if your heartbroken, your IQ drops temporarily by 25%.

That's an actual thing. Like you get dumb, like if you're heartbroken, it's like no matter how smart you are. So there's a lot of, um, secret to the heart. That you can unlock and use for your own benefit to create a better reality and better future. Um, so why do I say heart is synonymous to authenticity within the penthouse there, this will be where the trusting yourself starts.

Level three, going to level four, that's where trusting yourself starts. And what does trust mean? It's that, you know, nothing's guaranteed seriously, nothing's guaranteed. But if it's important to you, you're gonna go for it anyway. You're gonna take that risk, whether it's that new career or that new relationship, you're not gonna let your past hold you back.

It's, it's, it's going for something. Even if you don't know what's gonna exactly happen, that's when you start to be authentic. You're gonna be like, it's like, it's like, fuck it, I'm just gonna go for it. It's like that energy. So you vibrate higher, quote unquote, when you're being, you. And you're being you when you don't care about the consequences.

I mean, you do, but you know, hopefully it's not so reckless. You do care about the consequences, but you trust yourself that you're like, you know what? No matter what happens, I have, I've got my own back. Like hopefully, like I've worked hard enough to like have enough savings or do this, or I know, like I can always like go, um, contact this person to like get me like a backup plan, whatever, right?

Like you have, like, this is where the brain comes in. The heart says, Hey, this thing seems like really exciting. Why don't you go for it? That's the heart. And the brain should be the servant of the heart. The brain says, okay, if you really wanna try that thing, um, make backup plans in case this thing fails.

That's the relationship between the heart and the brain, unfortunately. So they really work together. Unfortunately, people like put too much like all their eggs in the heart without, like, using their brain, or they bestow too much trust in their brain. Like, no, I can like logically or rationally hack this shit.

And, you know, data shows that this is risky, so I'm just never gonna do it. And they don't listen to their heart at all. So life is a series of your heart and your head constantly talking to each other. That was a lot of information. I'm gonna pause right there. Any questions, comments, feedback? Okay. No. So, um, so one person operating at a level of 500 when, and you're, if you're wondering what's 500, we're gonna talk about this at a level of 500, which is love can lift 750,000 other people to a level of above 200.

So what does this mean? If you raise your own vibration, a k a, the more authentic you are. The more you are true to yourself, the more you trust yourself, you, and tapping into your heart. And like I said, heart is like a really powerful organ. It will have invisible impact on like 750,000 people around you.

so if you heal yourself, not to sound cliche, but you, you could heal your friends, you could heal your family without you doing very much at all, just by surely working on yourself. Or are there cases where they don't respond or they don't meet you? Yeah, of course. You know what I think you should do at that point, I think you should cut them off.

But I mean, that, that's me. And, and I've done that plenty of times. And by the way, it's worked every single time, but at least for me, so this is where I also tell people the heart is not just about compassion, it's also about being, being cold. Sometimes, you like, there's a priority. Like you are first, like I said, like you're the shit.

You're first. You're important, you're number one, and you're gonna do your best to like uplift other people. But if they can't keep up with you, you, you're still number one. You're still gonna put yourself first and move forward. And the, the words that I just use is very much like alignment speak, like when you're walking the path of alignment.

If you're trying to align yourself, remember how I said your, um, alignment is you pulling different parts of yourself to serve the soul. Sometimes the parts you have to pull together means letting go of other people. The part of you that wants to hold on, the part of you that wants to hold on to old habits, people, places think maybe if that's a part of you that you have to be like, get your fucking shit together and like, come with me.

If that, if that's the part, you gotta do that because your soul wants to progress, it wants to evolve, it wants to move forward. This what I just described, let me tell you, this is not easy for so many people. It's ki it's kind of shocking. It's actually very shocking. Um, I've had to walk away from people who.

We're really okay with living a certain way and being a certain way, you know, habits like video games and smoking pot and hanging out with people who just don't, aren't very helpful. Or like knowing that they gotta like do this and move forward but can't. always like wearing the victim t-shirt.

It's like, um, the ultimate question is like, do you, do you believe that you're important and do you believe that you deserve better? If so, then you gotta, you know, gather your counsel. The, your personalities, like literally this parts of you. It, it has to match the heart. It's like, yeah, I get it. This happened to me when I was eight.

It sucked. Let's stop talking about it because we have to move forward. This is where you literally rally the troops. Does this make sense? I know this is very abstract, but this is like the clearest way I can explain it because especially within, um, the shadow work community, people keep thinking like rehash in the past is gonna heal them somehow.

And I'm like, no, it's not moving forward. That's going back, that's going backwards. That's literally what it is. And I get it. I understand sometimes you have to repeat stuff enough times because maybe something happened that was so traumatic that you're like, maybe you have p t s and you just have to get it out.

I, I understand. But I think that a certain breed of therapists that enable that is also not, I just don't think it's ethical. I don't think it's a good thing when I meet a therapist that says, yeah, I've been working with this patient for like 15 years. To me, that's a red flag. I would only tell you guys that I try to make videos about this and oh my God, people were not happy with me.

But whatever I, this is, I believe this, uh, through and through and through. So, and I've lived through it as well. Have a quick question, process. Yes. I think the part that I'm, I wanna kind of get clear on is just the letting go of parts that don't serve you and like, I guess more specifically when it's in ourselves when like, we like to get more kind of like detailed, like when we've relied so much on being, for me personally, being a people pleaser and like getting things done.

Like, and I just don't know what alternative in some ways, um, to like replace it with or be or how, cuz it's just been such an ingrained default that like, I'm aware I'm doing, I'm in the awareness part. Like I'm aware when I'm doing it, I don't like it when I do it, but I'm just like, but what else is there?

And I can't always like, come up with like whatever solution to it. And I think, um, and I'm, I'm sure like there's a lot of different facets of that. Like the people, um, the behaviors, the narratives, all of that. Like the letting go and shedding part, like how do we kind of like move towards, you know, the alignment that we want to go.

You know, into alignment with, and, um, but, but like, there's like so many different parts, like how do you prioritize, how do you think through it? Like, and it just kind of like comes up, um, you know, it gets triggered whenever things happen, right? So in real life, right? When you're out there in the world interacting with people, family work, all that stuff.

So just wanna kind of get more tactical in terms of how to think about this. That's a, that's a, that's a really good question. So let's, so let's pause and like, walk through an example. Cause I think that's, that's a really valuable exercise. So, um, when you say, I've been a people pleaser my whole life, that's how I've survived.

But now you're aware that it's also not serving you. talk to me, and this is like an actual workshop that I do, so if you wouldn't mind being my Guinea pig for a second. Sure. How did you know it's not serving you? Because it's like, I guess most applicably, right? For work, right?

Like when you were like, I've set the tone with my boss, like they were walking on eggshells with me. I think I've set the tone, like in terms of how people treat me, it's like, oh, you can always give Christina more work and she will like, rise up to it. And so, and I know like I can, but I don't always get maybe like the recognition or anything like that.

And so like, it's happened enough times where I'm just like, oh, like Christina can do it. And it's like, yeah, I can, but like, do I want to, like now I'm like, do I want to? And like, I don't see other people pulling their way and like, how come this work doesn't get reallocated to other people? And it's just kind of like, I feel like I, I'm getting a sense of resentfulness, I think.

Mm, mm-hmm. Instead of being like, how wonderful that, you know, my managers think that I have this great skillset right. To contribute to the team. Whereas I think that would be probably be like another way of seeing it, but I'm just feeling a little more like resentful that I'm getting continuously adding more work.

On my plate without really like, yeah. Does that make sense? Mm-hmm. And then I feel like I have to like, just take it cuz that's like, kind of like, I don't know how else to be like, and then when I, when I push back, I feel very confrontational. It's very uncomfortable. Mm-hmm. And so then I'll shrink back.

Like, I notice that with myself. I'm like, okay, but I have this much on my plate. And then, you know, and then I come up with a plan to like reallocate things and it's just like, right, ugh, I did it again. And then it's just like a pattern. What, what, what else is the, the consequence, other than you feeling confrontational, I wanna explore that threat further.

What, what's the worst case scenario that could happen? I mean, I probably feel like I'm disappointing them uhhuh, you know? Um, I'm causing friction. They might not trust me now. Like if I speak up and be who I really am about, like, I. You know, x, y, Z projects. Um, I'm also a two engram, which is like extremely like people pleasing type.

So that's also like, I don't know if that factors into this, but it just is, I know that people pleasing is a very strong, like part of the spiritual raw material. And I'm like working against that is like climbing this, like rope being agreeable. Yeah. Yes. Being agreeable. Like, I hate, like causing friction and I would rather make myself less comfortable to make everyone else comfortable.

And then I get into this like whole modern thing. I'm like, oh yeah. Okay. Let's talk tactically a little bit. Um, if you, uh, cause I don't think the, the work that you do, I, I don't think you mind it at all. It's more just like, are you getting compensated according to the work that you're putting out? Are you getting the recognition that you deserve?

Does your title match the work you're putting? I feel like you're kind of thinking through these terms, right? Like, like actual measures of the, of the work that you're doing? Yes. Or just even like respect in some ways. Is it being respected as like, You know, valuable. Yeah. Right. So respect is important to you.

You would like to feel respected, is that right? Some, yeah. I, I guess so. Yeah. So the reason why I ask that is because you're very clear in your shadows. You're very clear on shit. Like, you know, I fear X, Y, Z and therefore when people pleaser. once again, that's, that's your brain space being in the fear space, right?

Like, I don't, I don't want these things to happen, so I'm gonna be in this survival mode, being a people pleaser, that's the shadow aspect of you. But let's ask the heart what it wants. What does the heart want? That's why I ask, is it a better comp title? Respect. Because trust me, the heart has, its its own agenda because the heart wants you to succeed and they want you to be happy and wants you to play and be joyful.

Yeah. So at some point, um, if you could shift to, okay, what would it feel like if I got the recognition that I deserve and people were happy to gimme the recognition I mean, it comes to this other point where I just like, it kind of clicked when you were saying the heart has, its its own agenda, which is just like, I just wanna do things my way.

And like sometimes I don't believe in the projects I'm doing or the priorities or things like that, that are given like, you know, top down. um, and it's just like, kind of like the autonomy, the independence maybe of like, doing things my way and seeing like how they could potentially be different. yeah, I don't know if that makes sense.

Yeah, yeah. You, you probably feel like the, the work that you're doing is also taxing because you gotta make it, you gotta do it what other people want you to do, like according to their method. And you're probably like, I can do this better. Well, well not better, but like you, you have your own system that would work for you or methodologies that work for you that, you know, other people just might not understand right away.

So it sounds like freedom of expression, creativity is what the heart wants. Independence, autonomy, all those things. When you shift into the, the heart from the shadow, you gotta tell yourself at some point what the heart wants, the desire for it should outweigh the price you the fear, and only you can make that overture.

But one thing I, and we're gonna actually walk through this by the end of this presentation, but you have to start getting very specific and granular about what that looks like and what that feels like. If you got what you wanted. So for example, let's just say you had more autonomy and you got respect and recognition by having autonomy and freedom, what would that feel like?

What would that look like? What would your days look like? What are the words that your colleagues would use to describe you? One of them could be like, oh my God, I'm so glad that you know, you, um, took a lead on this and just kind did it your own way. It's so much better than what I would've done. Maybe your manager would tell you that.

Mm-hmm. And that's happened before, and it's made me feel really like happy and proud and seen. And I'm like, okay, good. Like, and that, that's where I'm like, okay. Like there's like that piece that is exciting to know, right? And this, um, this is where I, I also tell people like, following your heart is taking a, a big risk.

Because to be honest with you, this scenario that we just played out, no one can guarantee that that's gonna happen. I can't tell you that that could actually happen. That your manager, um, or your colleagues give you all the recognition and respect that you deserve after you do things on your own terms.

No one can promise you that. But no one, no one is supposed to promise you that either. This is the, the, the, the beauty of life, the, the beauty of matrix, whatever. It's like you, you create your reality, you create your game. You're as a, you're the player within the game. So, um, I tell people the number one way you break a pattern, Is to ask what your heart wants, understand the risks, do it anyway.

And God forbid if you get the outcome that you desire, congratulations. You just broke a pattern. After that, you'll never people please again. And let's just say, um, the second time or third time, you try it and people are like, whoa, how dare you? you have data from the first time that there are people out there who are open to your ideas and will give you respect because you have that first piece of data.

The next time you say no to someone and they give you shit for it, you can be like, yeah, this is your problem, not mine. Because I know people exist that will accept me even if I don't bend at their every whim. Does that make sense? That was a lot of talk. Does that, what do you think Christina? Yeah. Yeah. I mean, I, I've tried it and then I, the fear pulls me right back into these little patterns.

Yeah. Um, even though I have done it and it's worked out, out, I'm just, and I, sometimes I'm amazed at myself and I'm like, oh, wow, that worked. But only in this instance because of X, Y, Z. Like, I feel like I always like tuck it in under like an exception of something. You're right. And we all have something like that.

We all have that Achilles heal in our lives. The fear is just so loud. We all have something like that. Um, again, we're gonna talk about this later in the slides, but this is why it's important to mentally rehearse, like again and again and again. You can do it while you're awake. We can also do it while you're sleeping through like hypnosis or like, um, certain, like meditation tracks.

But the key is to be repetitive. Like repetition breeds conviction. Um, constantly like play the scenarios out in your head like how you want it to be. Mm. Constantly. This is why I keep saying brains really important. So it sounds like the parts of you that you have to pull back is, is the, um, this belief or the, the part of you that has been a people pleaser in order to not disappoint.

Mm-hmm. And being nice. I hate that word. Nice. When people describe me as nice, I kind of cringe cuz I'm just like, yeah. That was like a reaction to just people pleasing Right. My whole life and Right. So I just, I'm like, I try not to use that word, uh, in my vocabulary. Uh, the, so also for, for the shadow work.

By the way, the reason why I ask about, and this is really good notes for everyone, the reason why I asked about what, what's the worst thing that can happen cuz you're afraid of what you don't know, right? So the more you can play out, okay, what's the worst thing that can actually happen? The more you shed light on the fears, you realize, oh, it's actually not that bad.

So, for example, I used to have a fear of disappointing, um, people. I, I got to a point where now I realize like, okay, so what, let's just say did disappoint somebody, you know, like if I have like an actual obligation to people, right? For example, like my students, like yourself or like my partner, whatever, people that I actually have like obligations to like that, you know, it's like I should do my best to not disappoint them obviously.

But you know, sometimes it's like some random person who just say random shit like, oh, you hurt my feelings. My little response is like, and it's not my problem, especially if I think I'm doing the right thing. You know, feelings aren't facts. So they're like these subtle mantras that you can like write down bacon, like not my problem or beyond my control or, you know, these repetitive things you can recite to yourself to kind of help you overcome these humps.

Hmm. Yeah, I, I hope that was somewhat illuminating, but the good news for you is that I think you, you, you're already, it's really good that you know what the shadow is cuz some people don't even know, like perils of being a people pleaser. They're like, oh, I've just kind of been like, it's my whole life.

I'm like, okay, well look at, look at, look at all the things you're missing out on that your heart wants. You know, at some point that's gotta be, you gotta look at that and feel something like, oh my God, I can have all these things and I can't because of this personality trait that I have. So always look, so, always look at the prize, what you could have.

Mm-hmm. What could be if you're not a people pleaser. Yeah, we're go that. But that was a really good example and I'm sure we're gonna talk more about it. Down the line. Um, okay, so spiritual raw material, you know, it's what holds you down plus the shadow. It's the spiritual raw material plus the shadow.

It's what holds you down. And you guys saw this in the, in the worksheet, right? The Map of consciousness by, by David Hawkins, Dr. David Hawkins. Was anybody familiar with him before this workshop? Nobody. So, um, he's actually a, maybe he's a psychologist. I'm not even sure anymore. But this was groundbreaking within the spiritual community where he was able to map different emotions to different like frequencies.

So, you know, all these emotions in the bottom, they're, they're weaker, they're lower vibrational, denser energies. If you're feeling these things below, it's very difficult for you to manifest what you want because these moves slower. If you're feeling these upper energies, You know, you're literally that this is what raising your vibration is.

Raising your vibration is feeling better. Quite frankly, that's what it is. You know, people make it sound so complicated. No, it's like you're actually feeling better and the, the key isn't just to feel better. The real secret is to stay there as much as possible, as long as possible I can feel good right now and then turn the news and hear something about whatever the state of this country and I can get pissed again.

Right? So the key, that's why I'm I, I say limit media, limit stuff you don't have to absorb. This is why work is difficult because you have coworkers that bitch all the time, cuz you have like managers that are just shitty people, you know? This is why it's really important to examine who you hang out with, who you talk to.

You know, I could be in a really great mood and I could be feeling really optimistic about something, and then I get on a phone call with a friend. Who shits on my dreams. You know, she could say stuff like, oh, you know, like it's, you know, I, I just don't, I just don't think it's gonna work. I don't think it's worth it.

Whatever they say, right? Because of whatever state they're in. And then I hang up and now I'm in a shitty mood and I'm gonna act on that shitty mood. I was, I was at a high vibration and then it dropped because someone told me I can't do something and now I might sabotage just to prove that I can and like act prematurely.

And guess what? I manifested that emotion. That's how this works. Feelings, thoughts, actions, repeat. That's why I say feelings are manifestation. You use emotions to manifest good or bad, but before you act on your feelings, you can use your intuition to be a judge. So, for example, my intuition could have assessed that phone call with my friend and said, yeah, you know, she was just in a bad mood.

This is not about you. Does that make sense? Did you guys all see that the intuition could literally stop me there and go, yeah, don't listen to her. She's just whatever, in a bad mood. But my emotional brain, if I'm not trained, could be like, what if she's right? What if I can't do that thing? Holy shit. And then I act prematurely and like sabotage.

This is, this is literally how reality works. I'm not even kidding. So the soul if to get to, to, to go into alignment is figuring out a way to stay in an elevated emotional state. We just talked about how if you're authentically yourself, it bumps you up. Part of that means also, um, following your, your life purpose, figuring out your gifts.

And we all have a gift, by the way, as you can tell, the spiritual raw material. Yeah. Like we didn't choose that. So we didn't choose our gifts either. Just, you know, it's both good and bad. So as long as you follow that and then you lean into that and you like practice that ridiculously, the more you come into alignment.

Because the more you realize what your mission is, you start to realize like, I'm gonna do everything that I can to go in that direction and serve my life purpose. And that's gonna straighten you out and get your shit together and like cut loose All these like personality traits that are not serving you.

And that's what growth is. Growth is when you constantly shape and mold yourself in service of the higher version of you, like why you're really here. It's very difficult to have these conversations with artists, believe me. It's it's, they, they think they're like God's gift and they will continue. Uh, sorry, I'm like overly generalizing cuz not every artist is like this.

But I've had, I'm super biased cuz I've dated a bunch of artists and it's crazy to me how they think they're better than having a routine. They think they're better than having a schedule. They constantly dope themselves cause they think that's how they get inspiration. I'm like, no it's not. You know? So imagine how far though they could get along in their artistic career if they just, you know, could reign in these personalities, these aspects of themselves that are like super out of control.

See what I mean? To serve what their soul wants. Um, I think I read somewhere that weed is like, it brings you to two 50 or something. So if you're in a really bad state, it does, it does bump you up, but it, that's where it stops. It can't really get you higher than that. No pun intended. That's what I tell people all the time.

It's like, yeah, you think you're getting inspiration, not really. It actually gets you nothing. It just brings you to a neutral state. so it's like a good place to be I guess if you're like super anxious, but it's not, it's not a good device for downloads this whole, you know, myth about mushroom trip. I just don't think it's true.

I really, really don't think so. People having these like crazy downloads cause they did this. Crazy, whatever, mushroom or ayahuasca stuff, I'm like, that's, that's a lie. I just don't believe it. Um, you were seeing random visions, nothing truly from sos Again, very controversial. I don't think people like it when I say that, but whatever.

So, does this make sense so far? So this is, this goes back to what I was telling you, Christina, the, it's important to ask yourself like, okay, what's my prize? What, how would I feel if I did get what I want? How would I feel if I did listen to my heart? Because the more you think that, and the more you feel that, um, oh wait, hold on.

Yeah. So, so if you do shadow work, it brings you to, um, just right at the edge of like, okay, I'm starting to make sense of what happened to me. But if you tap into the heart, this is where you start to accept and transmute that negativity into positivity. For example, if you stay in the shadow, you know, you, you have to rinse and repeat your past life history, and you can get angry.

You can get fearful, you can feel grief, like, ah, man, I wish I was a better person back. Like, whatever, all the stuff, right? But then as you forgive and let go and think about the future, and think about, you know, the life that you could have and the person that you could be, you start to accept yourself.

You start to love yourself. You're, this is literally the, the, the path to going into your heart. So, you know, using the imageries, having vision boards, you know, having a friend that you can speak to positively about the future, these are things that will bump you up on the emotional scale. This is why, um, like hopeful, here you go, feeling more hopeful about your future, feeling about who you can be, feeling satisfied.

Someone, I forget who said this, I think, oh yeah, I think it was Julie. You know, what you did was terrific. Putting things into perspective, like my life is actually better now than it was ever before. Like, um, that's, you know what that is, that's reason right here. You're starting to break away from like the emotional charge of the past and starting to reason with yourself.

Like, you know, it's actually not that bad. Like, what the fuck is my problem? Why am I like always like this? You know, believe it or not, that is bumping you up, being able to do that. We, we all need people in our lives, friends, family, who can do this with us. So now that you look at this, you're probably gonna take an inventory of who you talk to and you're probably gonna ask yourself like, do they put me in this state?

Like what state? It's very important. Thoughts, comments, feelings, reactions?

Is this like common sense or, or is this making you realize like what you didn't know before? Like where's everyone at? It's easier said than done. I will tell you that. Okay, let's move on. By the way, countries also have a vi, a vibrational scale, different countries, and it's, it's connected to like G D P.

It's really interesting. I think I heard America is like around four 20, which I don't even believe at this point. I, I, I think, I think it got lowered recently, but as of couple of years ago, it was like four 20, Um, um, I think like India was like two 30 or something like that, and some other country was like 300.

You know, it's like, it's very interesting. Everything is a vibration. So the penthouse, you know, it's a skeletal. You're, you're born with a basic skeletal framework. That's a spiritual raw material. Um, because you're taught how to think, you're taught what to believe. You're taught how to feel as a response to situation.

It's a basic framework. And you, and you get, you can get caught up in this like logic and then emotional loop, like, this thing happened, now I'm emotional. This is what it means. You can't get caught up in the loop and then that keeps manifesting, right? Certain patterns. The minute you start tapping into your heart, your penthouse, like, not o the not only, I, I gotta, I gotta explain this correctly.

Um, not only do you have a better grasp of how to move up the scale, but your, your mind just expands, period. A good example of this is like, you know how some people, they're like, oh, I wish I had just like a thousand dollars in my bank, and they'd be pretty happy. But then they, but once they like, move up the vibrational scale and they tap into their heart, whatever, you know, they realize their, their framework was so tiny.

It's like they couldn't even see beyond the thousand dollars. Like they'll be just so happy if that's all they had. Same thing with the relationship. I'll be just so happy if I had this person in my life, even if they're like shitty. But that's all like, you could really handle in that moment, that framework, cuz that's what you think you deserve and that's what your brain and your body believes.

But if you tap into the heart and really think about like possibilities in the future, the whole penthouse expands and gets bigger. Now suddenly you realize, okay, I want a million dollars, not a thousand dollars. Now I want a partner who can do like these 10 things, not these two things. So it's not even about thinking big, it's about feeling big.

That's why I tell people, hey, when you're trying and trying and trying, something's not working. Whether it's with a person or you know, a job or whatever. It's not that you're not manifesting it, it, it could literally be that your higher self just honestly thinks you deserve better. Quite frankly, it's not a rejection, it's a redirection.

I'm not saying that to be like hallmarky and cliche. Like I really, I really believe that. How often do you walk away from a relationship, look back six months and go like, what the fuck? I can't believe I like tolerated that. Well, guess what? Your penthouse increased because you moved up, you moved up the system, and you probably reasoned with yourself and accepted, like, go. And you're like, well, fuck, I, I actually love myself more than that bullshit I was putting up with. Does this make sense? Any gut reactions? Okay, let's move on. And I've actually seen this within, um, my own brain too.

Your, your, you know, the brain, the brain is elastic, like IQ is elastic. Your IQ can go up even if you're older. So, um, depending on how well you take care of yourself and how, how invested you are on your vision, once again, the different parts of you will come together to serve that. That also means your brain function could increase.

And I see this a lot. People who get new jobs, get promotion, get more responsibilities. You think you can't handle it. Guess what? If your soul really wants it, your brain will catch up and it will compute things faster. I, I'm a, I'm a big believer. Same thing with the weight. If you have like an ideal vision of what your body looks like, if that's what your heart really wants and you keep like, like, right.

Like, it's like if you're like disciplined with a diet and then the exercise, cause your heart really wants it, your body will follow. This is, but it always starts with what do you want, what does a heart want? Yeah. And the heart once again is about 400 to 500 hertz or something like that. So being able to consistently enter the state, being the state, not once, not just like randomly when you want to, like consistently being, being able to get there on command is what's going to help you get to the reality that you desire.

Sit here. How do you tell from what, like the heart wants, from like the brain? Like how do you distinguish that? So the heart wants, um, what feels expansive to you, what the brain wants could almost feel like damage control. It's a little bit more complicated when it comes to relationships. By the way.

That's, that's super situational. that this is where, um, because when you're dealing with another person, right, they have their own free will, they have their own karma. It's very complicated. That's why you need to almost work with someone when, in the context of a relationship, because, because people change.

That's, that's why, because people change and they, you know, no one, nothing is fixed. But if you're in the context of like life goals, professional goals and dreams, um, it will feel expansive to you. you will almost get this rush of energy of like, oh my God. Like, that's it. Like, and you will also feel this peace.

so actually like when I, um, um, I can tell when someone's found their calling, when, um, they. Don't care about the money, they don't care about the fame, they don't care about any of that. They're just happy to be there and just happy to do it. They have, they found this inner piece, and of course they get the money right after that, which is like the biggest irony.

A a again, I understand this sounds super cliche, but I've seen this so many times. Does this make sense to you guys? Let's go back. Let's look at the vibrational scale. Um, the heart is right, love. Yeah. If you feel any of these things, when you envision a certain future, that means that's what your heart wants.

But if you feel like a little bit anxious, if you feel like, oh, I don't know if I can do it, or like, but then what about, you know, people that leave behind if you, if these thoughts, I compete with that vision. Something's off. The other, the other thing I wanna say is that, um, um, From my experience, things feel a bit more effortless and smooth if you're on the right path.

Like there's so many Synchron synchronicities, like doors just seem to open, but that's a conversation for later. Yeah, so going up the penthouse is synonymous. Moving up the chakra, which is synonymous to moving up the vibrational scale. This is, don't care who you are, if you're in the spiritual space and you talk about healing yourself, this, this is the blueprint.

This is the roadmap. This, everyone's saying this in a different fashion. They're using different words, but this is the Bible, you guys, quite literally, and the name of the game is to stay in a certain vibrational state as much as you can, as long as you can. And if you do drop to bounce back as quickly as you can.

I have people on speed dial. If I'm in a certain mode, I know who to call when I'm in a certain mood. And they know. They know how to shift things for me because they know like they're really on my side, you know? Does that make sense? Okay, great. Yeah, I don't call my mother, she's the last person that I would call in that scenario, so, and she knows it too.

She, she gets it. Um, okay, so this, I, I wanna save more for, uh, the worksheets you guys, I'm gonna have everyone like go through your worksheet and answer this on your own. But I wanna walk through, um, the basics of this. All right? So I, I noticed there is a projector and a manifestor in this room. I think Rebecca as a, as a manifester who's a projector.

Julie, right? Represent. There's a bunch of manifesting generators. So once again, like we will be doing this on a worksheet level, but I wanted everyone to get a basic understanding of the spiritual raw material, because let me tell you, when I discovered. Some of these things in my chart, it almost like, you know how I talked about the, the frequency of reasoning and that helps you like go, like previous shit.

It, like, just knowing this stuff about my chart, it, like, it instantly bought me into reasoning and acceptance. I was like, oh, okay, this is actually not my fault at all. This is just kind of how I was born and I was able to like just get over and move on, if that makes sense. So for example, when I discovered that 22 degrees about my Mercury, I felt less defensive.

And I, and if anything, it encouraged me to seek out, like speech coaches, like guilt free, you know, before that there was like this resistance, like, no, like I could, I could figure this out on my own. But once I discovered that, it's like some shit I'm born with, I was like, okay, well now I'm definitely gonna look for professional help, you know?

And it's fine. Like it's, I, I'll be happy to do that. All right. Um, in your chart, does anybody have 22 degrees? So the way you look at that is just if you go to, so, okay, well first of all, I don't know what everyone's using to calculate your astro chart, but it would basically say like 22 dot a number. But in the astrology chart, would show on the key, on the legend at the very bottom if someone wants to screen share. Cause you're not sure you can do that with me? No. Okay. Well consider yourself lucky. It's not, it's not a very good degree anyway, so it's, they called a serial killer degree, like Ted Bundy has it, you know. I know. Gotta watch out you guys. Um, I'm just kidding. So anyway, um, it's in your worksheets.

I'm probably gonna have you fill out, you know, Chiron, Uranus. And, uh, if you have any mo Moon Pluto aspects, if you don't know how to read this, that's totally okay. Like if you go to the bottom of the chart. So as I was saying, Uranus indicates to instability in your life in a certain sector of your life.

um, House was all about career, Lynn, it's about your public persona, your professional image. I know, I think, um, I've seen Uranus in the 10th house. People do really cool shit, like literally launch a brand new career that no one's done before. I think, um, I can't remember if it was James Charles, it was like one of those like makeup artists, beauty gurus who was like the very first like gay makeup artist on YouTube, right?

Um, I think he had Uranus in the 10th house before him. You know, no one has ever made it that big as like, like an L G B T Q, like makeup artist on social media, right? He, what he did was super sudden, unpredictable, never been done before. Very Aquarius. So, um, Lynn, I know, I know that part of the reason why you're here is because you wanna figure out where you want to be next, what your path is.

I suspect you might have turned up doing something that's never been done before, or that other people might perceive as like, what's that? At first you could be like, literally like, challenging people's points of view on what normal is. And I do something brand new into this world that's the Uranus energy.

It's chaos, but it's also creation, shun, you know, birthing something new. So one way to work with this Uranus energy is to, instead of fighting for normalcy or wanting normalcy, defining for yourself what that means, creating your own version of normalcy. You know, so for example, like for, for me and Erin I'm sorry, someone else at the fourth house, Erdos.

Who was that? Uh, Rebecca. Oh, Rebecca, thank you. We might have to define for ourselves what home life is. Maybe it's not the, you know, Erin, when you were talking about like, oh, like other families have, like these, like rituals giving, I can totally relate to that. I want that shit. But maybe, you know, I, I gotta compromise a little bit and come with my own version of a ritual or, or tradition.

This is how you heal that, that aspect of your life by, um, being okay with introducing something new, coming up with a brand new way of doing things and not fearing judgment. I know there's a bunch of people in this room with a Uranus in the seventh house. I, I have to figure out, um, how to work with that.

But always go into the heart. Always tap into the heart and ask yourself like, okay. What, what would I like for it to be instead if I don't want a traditional marriage or relationship, or if I do want it, what, what does that actually look like? And maybe that means that I gotta give up certain things within me.

Like for example, if that guy I was dating, I would go back to him and tell him, um, stop, change your mind every two seconds. how you're gonna stay in a healthy relationship. Even if you wake up and feel different. Just, just stay literally. And that, and that's different for everyone, but it's working with that Uranus energy.

Does that make sense? I know that was like a lot. Um, Christina for you second house, it's about earned income, income. It's also about how you work with other people. Um, but it's mostly about the income. So you may have people with Uranus in the second house, could. Like sudden windfalls, like suddenly like huge amounts of money out of nowhere.

If you're not careful, crystal lose it all, you know, and again, it's like the chaos, right? And it can be good or bad. So is there, do you have anything in the eighth house, Christina? Any planets?

I'm checking. Uh, might tinney a little bit. It's okay. Seven. Uh, so, so eighth house, you guys is all about shared resources.

That's, that's all about investment. Second house is about your, your income. So I was curious if Christina had anything in the eighth house to counteract that, but Mercury. Oh, um, what's the little sign? Chiron on Really? And the sun. Okay, I have to think about this. Um, that's very interesting.

So this is gonna be part of your homework and we're almost, we'll be wrapped in like five minutes or so. Um, but uh, make sure you look up the meaning of the houses. gonna indicate to an area of your life. And think about creative ways to heal that UUs energy, that unpredictability, that instability.

Figure out a way to give yourself that stability. Does that make sense? And I'm not a professional astrologer, so I can't go down like this knee deep rabbit hole on like what everything means. But what I do find is that pe where people feel most out of control over is the Uranus stuff. I've noticed that.

In your worksheet, I will, I'm also gonna need you to pay attention to the incarnation cross. So just put a pin on that. It'll be in the worksheet, but just pay attention to that. Um, So how to overcome it. This is probably the most important part, which I'm only spending five minutes on. This is terrible.

I'm sorry. So how to overcome your karma slash your fate, right? We, we talk about a good chunk of it. Clear your space in your body. A lot of this is letting go of the garbage, not to be cliche, but gratitude and forgiveness. That that is the heart qualities. So if you have memories or traumas that are still emotionally charged, like seriously ask yourself like, what's so like, why can't I forgive this?

Why can't let it go? If you have someone that you're angry about finding reasons to, you know, maybe be grateful, like, I'm grateful that they were in my life because I still learned this lesson. I'm still, I still wouldn't be who I am today without this moment that they shared with me, or whatever, right?

So start like getting into that practice and the habit of like tapping into the heart. When I say be upon unapologetically yourself, a good way to start doing that is just speaking your mind, speaking your truth. don't hold back. That's a really good first step. Um, and this is where it gets a little bit meta.

W I I hope everybody in this room is meditating or start to meditate. This is what I would ask you guys to do as you start meditating. Um, do like a body scan, right? Like literally like imagine the light flowing through, you know, the head and then the ears and the neck and the shoulders and the chest.

Like, just like do his full body scan. I am a reflector, so this doesn't really work for me, but for other people, there is gonna be a part of your body that's holding onto a certain emotion, whether it's anger, resentment, sadness, whatever that body part is. Imagine there is a, like a lot of light being injected into it.

This is a visualization, visualization exercise. You know how athletes rehearse their competition in their head before they actually do it, and it increases their odds of like succeeding. That's what you're basically doing. You're healing the part of yourself that's holding onto dense energy. If you have someone who's giving you a hard time or you have a hard time forgiving them, send them light and, you know, don't send them like random light, like send them positive light.

You know, like you could literally say like, I'm sending this person, um, energy of gratitude, love, and, um, the highest good or whatever.

if, if it feels like I'm rushing, like, don't worry, like this is gonna be unpacking the worksheets. But the other thing I would ask you guys to do to practice hard energy is start to really think about what inspires you. Inspiration speeds up manifestation way faster than just setting an intention.

You know how people talk about in intentional a lot? Oh, I said the intention to manifest. Yeah, that's bullshit. You gotta first like, look into what really like, gets you up in the morning. I think for a while um, for me that was like, um, the movie, movie Whiplash. I don't know why it's like such a depressing movie, but that, that movie really inspired me and it gave me all this fresh energy to like work on new projects.

And so you guys gotta find that version of that for yourself. Because if you think about it, like, how often do we think about what inspires us? We, we, we don't actually spend that much time thinking about this shit. We really don't. We, we spend more time thinking about issues. So flip the script and, you know, if you're really passionate about real estate or interior design or if you're really inspired by like a music video, whatever it may be, just keep looking for that.

Keep searching for that. Like see how your heart feels.

Maybe you're really inspired by some Fortune 500 executive, their story. I don't know. Yeah. So we're, we're pulling you away from the shadow and pushing you into the, a authenticity, um, this light exercise. Have you guys heard this before? You have. Okay. Let me tell you, I know about this stuff. I rarely do it.

So I gotta keep myself accountable because this stuff really works. When I first started to, when my life started to really change, I noticed this is because I started doing this, I start to do everyday meditation. I did the light scan. if I had no spots, I would always, um, imagine there was like a light ball, like in my heart and like, like increasing.

I always exercise that. Um, and the reason why that works is because the chakras activate when you put your attention on it. You don't have to like look at a color or eat certain food, that's bullshit. You just have to like, put your focus on it and then the chakra activates. So if you're putting your attention on the heart, Um, and you can even put your hand over it cuz your hand has a bunch of chakras. It will speed up the activation. So once again, we're pulling the energy up to the chest instead of like letting it be on the bottom three chakras where all these emotions are stored. Okay. Um, yeah, so this one goes back to what Christina was talking about earlier.

How do I, um, how do I take that risk? Basically how do I do stuff in spite of the fear as Homer? So as part of the worksheet, what I'm gonna end with your buddy, with your accountability buddy. I need you guys to very vividly and specifically describe to each other that penthouse exercise that you guys did.

What would you rather be at instead at every level? So you don't have to write this down right now, but I'm gonna send this out literally like get on the phone with your accountability buddy. Financially, creatively. Professionally, interpersonally, romantically, the perfect version of that. What does that look like?

And be specific colors, smell, taste, temperature. It's almost like it, it's almost like you gotta be like watching a movie. And I know your mind could think like, oh no, that's so cliche. That's bullshit. Whatever. Um, can list to you so many different things that I have personally manifested after doing this.

And it's a list that you have to go back and edit again and again and again. The guys that I attracted into my life now, very different from a year ago, my friends completely changed financially. Total shift. The only thing I did different was I did this exercise and, you know, people like typically write down like, oh, I wanna manifest this car, or, you know, this job or this person.

It, it's like, no, no, no, no, no. You, you gotta have. Pages dedicate to a single category. It's gotta be like a book by category. I know this sounds ludicrous, but I would not be talking about something that did not work for me. Okay? So look at what you've answered in the penthouse. Look at the Uranus and look at the incarnation cross in the human design.

And I'm gonna send that on cheat sheet. Look at what you've been dealt with by the universe and say, okay, I know this now I acknowledge it. Aware. I'm aware now let's start creating what I want instead.

Um, so yeah, write what you wish it to be like on different floors and make it vivid and vibrant. So I say that because a lot of people just write down like very like cursory, like flippant, like, boom, I want this. It's like, no, like, make sure the color is like fucking saturated. Like it's like high quality, like 4K quality movie.

That's how you're like transmitting energy. This is your life. This is your life. Like, don't fuck around. This is important. You're important. So don't, and please, like if you get on the phone with your accountability buddy, like your only job is to tell them that they can do this. It it just really push each other and like ask each other like for more specificity.

Cool. Can we do that? Raise your hand if you're currently doing this at all with anybody in your life or have done this period.

Just make a list of things you want. Well, yeah. And like paint a picture of, of what that thing looks like. Very descriptively. feel like I did that on your 21 days of doma. Oh, you did? A little bit. Probably not as in detail as you're saying. I can't even remember that. Like, wow, I made that thing over a year ago.

I forgot what it has now. I have like 20 pages on that alone. Cause Wow. Can do, do you mind if I ask what you wrote down? Like what? Like what was it about what category? Oh, it was, it was a man. Oh, it was pretty long list. Okay. Sounds personal. We don't have to talk about that right now. Um, um, treat this like a playful exercise.

And write out as much as you can. And I always tell people, look, you can shoot for the moon and if you fall, at least you fall within the stars instead of back to Earth. So consider it this. Okay. And, um, let's start with this. And in the future weeks we're gonna take your list and, um, create tangible ways to, um, like, almost like create, like shrines and like, you know, repurpose your home.

And so there's like, it gets so woowoo, but I'm, we're, we're gonna do some stuff around your house to, to invoke the energies of this list. It's gonna be fun. Any other questions, comments, feelings? Can we go around and say one adjective on, on, on how we're feeling?

I'm feeling renewed cuz I'm excited to do this. I'm a little overwhelmed with everything, with the information. Oh. Just like the homework. It's like, there's a lot, there's a lot on this to go into different avenues. Yeah. You know what the hardest part of the homework will be is to, um, stay in the, the love and above vibration, the 400.

Mm-hmm. That's the har that's the hardest part. It, it sounds so easy in theory. It's so hard. It actually, that's why we're going through this like list building exercise so that you put your brain power into something positive, not negative. Um, who else?

I'm feeling excited. Yeah. I feel like the feet were tingling as you were talking about, like all the possibilities of like, just like in the different areas of, um, creation. Mm-hmm. Yeah. I was just gonna say, um, like feel inspired as well to like, learn about these and the tools that we can navigate to like better ourselves as well.

Wait, your feeling? What was the first word? Inspired. Inspired, okay. Great. Yeah, that's funny cuz that's exactly what I was gonna say. Nice. Um, Rebecca, really quick note. You're, you're a manifestor in theory. You're supposed to manifest things, things really well. So if you're not, you know, this, this is, this is, it's, it's a lot of, um, spiritual raw material and people around like shadow stuff holding you down.

Okay? That's almost like your only job on this planet to manifest. So that's why you're called a manifestor. You know, so it, but the problem is, so many manifestors struggle with manifesting because they have parents that try to hold them down. A lot of generator parents, you know, work hard. You're not supposed to work that hard as a manifestor.

Things just happen. But if you're programmed to work like a dog, then you, you are almost going against how you're designed, you know? So I know that you know what I'm talking about because you probably feel this. Yeah. Um, same thing with Julie. Uh, well, it's not exactly the same. It's a bit different. But anyway, you're not supposed to work that hard either.

I know it sounds really weird, but, um, projectors or reflectors, manifestors just don't have the life force energy to work like everybody else. So we have to like, use different ways to manifest. Um, okay. So Anna Lin and Erin, how are you feeling? Uh, do, do you hear me? Yeah. Okay. Uh, so I'm feel, I'm feeling like, uh, really excited and also.

Relax. I don't know. Is it like I'm, right now I'm at peace. Nice. I dunno if it makes sense, but I feel really calm and, and good actually. That's awesome. I'm glad Lynn. Um, I'm, I'm eager, eager to do it, to set intentions. Yeah. I feel like this is something I've been putting off a while, so it's, um, it's good to finally do it.

Yeah. Awesome. Erin. Yeah, I am also just really excited and I love that we're doing this as a group because Yeah, some of these things I've, like, stor sort of like tried individually, but just scratched the surface and it's really not as fun when you're doing it by yourself and your friends don't understand.

Yeah, they don't, uh, they, they, they really don't. So I need you guys to truly keep each other accountable and like push, like I said, for more detailed specificity and all that, and direction, and keep checking with your heart. Like, does it excite you? Does it bring you peace? If not, that's not, it's not something you should put on the list.

Okay. All right. More to come. Um, I'm so sorry we ran over. I will send out this recording to everyone and, uh, stay tuned for, uh, uh, the worksheets. Otherwise, I'll see you guys next week. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you. Bye everyone. Bye bye.
