Saturn

We wonder why there is "never-ending" hard work or "growing up" happening in a particular area of our life.

This is most likely due to Saturn Transit.

If you gloss over one Saturn transit, it will "accumulate" onto the next transit.

Saturn Finishing Construction in Your Aquarian House Video Transcript:

hello everyone. Um, I am Jake, uh, from Dream Alley Astrology. Uh, and I will be talking today about, uh, the astrology of Times of Change, but specifically looking at Saturn.

So Saturn is going to go into Pisces. Um, in March of this coming year, and we're wrapping up our last foray of Saturn through the end of Aquarius. Uh, it just stationed direct, uh, in October, late October. So we're doing the final push of the Saturn Foundation that has been laid over the last two years. Um, and we're going to work together to review what lessons we've learned, how we've been strengthened by Saturn, and learn kind of how Saturn teaches so that we can take the learnings of the last two years, uh, set that foundation solidly so that when we move forward in 2023, when Saturn goes into Pisces, we're ready for that next, uh, three years of Saturn, Pisces, so that we can make the most of it we're gonna be talking about Saturn today so first I wanted to talk a little bit about the basics of Saturn.

What Saturn represents, what Saturn is. So Saturn, some archetypes that apply to Saturn are the disciplinarian, the reaper, the father, the wall builder, cold reality in quotes, uh, and necessity what is needed in order to survive and thrive. Saturn is the one that sets boundaries and obstacles that force us to allow, uh, that force and allow us to grow strong and thrive in a cold world.

Saturn teaches us what we need to thrive. It also teaches us how to get those things for ourself. Right. Saturn traditionally rules things like farmers, where the work you put in day to day is exactly what you get out later on, but that reaping is a long process of daily tending to those plants daily, tending to those crops so that over time they can grow.

And then you can harvest and then save. Saturn is also the one that saves, right? In the, in the winter you take stock of what you have dried in, in the storage cell so that you can last the winter with what you have saved and acquired. Um, Saturn also teaches us throughs. Struggle and obstacle, um, how to grow into our next selves, how to mature and how to grow into an adult who can survive in a world that doesn't give a shit about you.

Right? That's a simplification, right? The world does give a shit about you, but sometimes it asks you to, uh, prove your worthiness through overcoming these obstacles and struggles. Uh, traditionally speaking in the Hellenistic system, Saturn is called a malefic right? And malefics do things that are subjectively un chill and they cause change in our lives With Saturn that un chillness is boundaries.

It's walls that get dropped between what you would like to have, and that wall that gets dropped helps you to change so that you can get it for yourself instead of relying on unreliable sources like other people or fortune that just comes from the world around you. Uh, Saturn. Again, Saturn builds walls and boundaries that force us to grow past those obstacles.

Uh, through that process, we gain strength and wisdom, the emotions that can be tied to Saturn in our own lives, uh, depending on their placement in our charts, how well they're situated in our charts, what's aspecting them. Emotions that can come up with Saturn. Stuff is discipline, judgment of others and self grit, sadness, loss, depression and perseverance.

And, uh, a feeling of desperate necessity that can also help us to persevere, right? The things that we absolutely need that we're willing to struggle to get. Uh, again, symbols can be the wall. The father and the father is more of like the disciplinarian father, whereas Jupiter is kind of like the good vibes dad, right?

Uh, daddy Saturn and Daddy Jupiter are very different, but they both want you to thrive. Jupiter is just more willing to kind of. Give you the thing, and Saturn wants to teach you how to get it for yourself. Uh, another symbol is the trench and, uh, farmer's rose, where that separation between plants, uh, give it the space to put its roots down and get the nourishment and moisture that it needs to grow and thrive.

Without those boundaries, those plants will struggle and choke each other out, and nothing will thrive, right? So the boundaries and space that Saturn gives us teaches us how to create that space so that we can grow and thrive with, uh, with, you know, more abundance and vertical growth, right? The grave is another thing.

Laying things to rest, saying goodbye to things in the past that no longer serve us. Um, also the trainer, the teacher and the elder, the wise one who has learned from a life of experience. Um, so what I wanted to do, uh, with all of this in mind is, uh, play a little clip for everybody from a very formative film, uh, from my childhood.

And I think this scene is kind of perfect, uh, to sort of highlight how we learn from Saturn. Um, and I'm going to come back and share my screen again. Make sure I've got sound and tell me if you can hear this or tell me if you can't hear it. Meaning I'm what? I'm being you goddamn slaves' ready. You sure? So, so you're supposed to teach and I'm supposed to learn. For four days I've been busting my ass. I learned a goddamn thing. Ah, you learned plenty. I learned plenty. I learned how to sand your decks.

Maybe I watch your car, paint your house, paint your fence. I learned plenty rest. And not everything is just simple. Oh, bullshit. I'm going home, man. And your son Daniel. Your son? What? Come here.

Show me sand floor. I can't move my armor right.

What are you doing? What

Owow? What are you doing? Oh, show me. Stand the floor. How did you do that? Shut.

Stand the floor.

Stand up. Show me. Sand floor.

Sand floor. Sand floor. Big circle. Sand floor. Sand floor.

Show me wax on. Wax off. Hey, wax on. Wax on. Wax on. Wax on. Hey, wax on at. Wax off at concentrate. Look my eye. Lock a hand some in inside Axon hat. Acts of axon hat, acts of hat, axon. Ax off. Show me. Paint fence up, down.

Up done, up done. Other side. Look, I always look, I show me paint house. I say luckiest. I save side. Show me wax on, wax off. That, that, that, that show me pen defense catch face. That, that show side. The side. Yes. That, that, that sand heart.

Yeah, stop dot and look. I always look, I come back tomorrow.

So, um, as we learned from Mr. Miyagi, sometimes the way we learn, uh, through struggle, toil, and strife teaches us things deeper in a, in a deeper way to where it becomes instinct, it becomes internalized that, uh, we may not even know we've. learned it Right. We may not even be aware that this is the strength and, uh, lesson that we have been growing through.

This is very much the way that Saturn teaches us. We are waxing the car. We're, you know, we're sanding this floor. We have no idea why we have to do these things, and it sucks. We gotta work. We gotta do it every day. Our arms are tired, we're exhausted, right? But by the end of the process, when Saturn begins to leave a sign, right, and go into the next one, to start the next three year journey, we look back on all of the struggles we've experienced, and if we're present, if we concentrate, if we look Saturn in the eye and ask what have we learned?

We'll see that we now have an entire structure and system of strength in that place in our lives that we did not have before. And it will only serve us to be present with that information and present with that lesson moving forward into the future. So some key dates to, uh, to think about. Cuz tonight we're gonna join in to breakout, uh, rooms and we're all going to talk about where Aquarius is in our house system.

Uh, you should take a look at your natal chart and figure out what whole sign house Aquarius is. And, uh, with that information we can look, look at these dates as date ranges and think about the great, uh, struggles that we've experienced in that part of our lives. That house where Aquarius is within these date ranges.

And that'll help us to see what lesson and what strength Saturn has been teaching us so that it can prepare us for the next step, which is Saturn and Pisces. So a few dates here. Uh, the first date. Saturn in Aquarius was Saturn's ingress, uh, for the first time on March 21st, 2020. Now, uh, those all of us kind of know the late March, uh, early April shutdowns within the us uh, were correlated to Saturn, Mars conjoining at the beginning of Aquarius on March 31st.

Now, this was kind of a clearing where Saturn and Mars came into Aquarius and sort of like just demolished a structure that was there and set everything kind of open and, and, and spacious for the new foundation to be built, right? That was, that was generally experienced as un chill on a very large scale, right?

But it was a clearing to where later on when Saturn went back into Aquarius in December of 2020, it would join Jupiter where we would start to truly build the foundation that is going to last for us. In that place in our lives for the next 20 years afterward, 27, 28 years afterwards until Saturn goes back into Aquarius the next time.

Right. So around December is where we start really seeing like, oh, this is the mission and this is what we were kind of called to learn. Um, and then we move forward. Uh, so since December of 2020, up until, uh, now, right around October 24th was the last direct station we've been building something that's getting reviewed in that area of our lives.

Wherever Aquarius is, the whole sign house, that is, that area of our lives, has been undergoing this transformation as we've been growing under the tutelage of Saturn in that place. The last direct station was October 24th. From October 24th. On is the very last passage of Saturn through Aquarius, where on March 7th, Saturn will leave Aquarius for good, having not stopped, gone back and reviewed anymore after October 24th.

That's it. We're done with Saturn and Aquarius on March 7th. Um, so what I would love for everybody to do, um, actually, you know what I wanna, I want to mention one more thing, kind of a clarification on how Saturn teaches, right? One metaphor I like to use is Saturn is the trainer in the weight gym, right?

The, the weightlifting gym, the body building gym. And we are weightlifters in this gym and Saturn just continues to add weight to the barbell on top of our backs, right? And our job is to just keep lifting. Right. Knowing that we will get stronger every time we lift and when we keep lifting, we'll continue to get stronger so that the next time Saturn adds on weight will continue to grow stronger and we'll be able to handle it right.

Saturn asks that we keep that persistence and that discipline in continuing to struggle against the weight that is put on us in this place. When we lose sight of what we want and what the purpose of this training is, we can give up and then crumple under the weight. However, Saturn does not stop adding weight.

Right. When we have that experience of kind of crumpling under the weight, Saturn will continue to add weight so that the next time we do stand up, it is going probably be tougher than if we had just kept going. Right? That is the way that Saturn teaches. He teaches in a way that is cumulative and as we continue to grow and handle more and more struggle, we get stronger and we learn more lessons to be able to handle the next one.

And as we grow, we get more, uh, competent and more strong in being able to get what we need and being able to get what we want from daily work and, um, daily toil. Okay. So what I would love everybody to do is to look at your natal charts and find what whole Sign House Aquarius is. If you're not using Whole Sign, find your ascendent degree and whatever sign that Ascendant falls in is your first house, right?

And then just count Zoia signs from the first house there to Aquarius, and that'll be your. Aquarius house in whole sign. And so find your whole sign house that has Aquarius in it, and then look back at the past two years since March of 2020 to think about the struggles you had in that part of your life.

And that'll help to get the lesson, uh, grounded and see how you've grown over the past two years with that and how that can help you to thrive moving forward. It's been building a foundation in the system in that house via struggle. Hardship. So what's the wax on, wax off lesson from those struggles and hardships in that area of your life. And that's what we're gonna be doing now. can I just mention something real fast? Of course. So I just wanna say like, when we go through difficult things in life, we just think it's like sh*t luck. Um, but when you come across information like this and you become self-aware of like patterns, like universal patterns, you guys know that I talk about that a lot, right?

Like, everything works in patterns. Like, this is what I mean. Like, once you get what pattern you're in, like what phase you're in, you know you're gonna cycle out of it. But just like, don't, like do it willy-nilly, like I be aware of what the pattern was so that you can like, um, become the system, not be a victim of the system.

Yeah. Does that make. That's exactly right. You know, being able to use astrology to see these patterns and see the larger story being told gives us perspective to be able to see our place in the story, right? That toil, that struggle is always a part of a larger story. And if we can get that per uh, perspective, we can move forward with a little bit more optimism, with a little more agency and making those decisions and dealing with that struggle in a way that is actually productive for us.

Um, so I just wanna share one more thing. I'm gonna go over the houses here. Um, Just to review. So first house is the self-identity and body. Second house is your assets, belongings, finances, a sense of security and your innate skills, which you're naturally good at. Third House is siblings shared spaces, your local area, your communication, your style of communication.

Fourth house is the house of home, family, foundations and ancestors. Fifth house is creativity play, children and sexuality. Uh, sixth houses daily work, health, maintenance, how we are of service to others. Seventh House is committed partnerships. Uh, if you say LEO izing, this might be, this might pertain to struggles with partnerships or boundaries.

Be set in one on one partnerships, business or romantic. Eighth house is the partners resources or loans or, uh, inheritance. What we've gained from the family, either financial or emotional, ninth house is higher learning. It's like college or spirituality, travel publishing. Uh, 10th House is your career and public reputation.

11th house is your community, your friends, patrons, audience, those and those that support your continued career doing. And then 12th House is solitude. The collective unconscious, your own unconscious endings and what's called hidden enemies. But I like to think of hidden enemies as ways we can self-sabotage.

Right. So with this understanding of the houses, I would love for people to jump into breakout rooms and share with one another your, uh, Aquarius Saturn journeys, where Aquarius is and your house structure. What struggles in that part of your life that you've experienced over the last two years so that we can learn together.

So, um, with that, right, we can learn from each other, um, wherever Pisces is in your chart now in hall sign, right? Think about where Aquarius is, the next sign over the themes of that house are going to be what's reviewed and restructured by Saturn moving forward, right?

And so, um, I heard people talking about, uh, resetting boundaries with one-on-one partners and learning how to set boundaries with one-on-one partnerships and, and, uh, learning how to kind of restructure the way we relate to one another. When the seventh house is lit up, I saw people learning how to, uh, sort of grow and thrive through setting boundaries with work and, and doing the diligent work to systemize work for themselves and, and move forward, uh, with six house placements, um, people restructuring their communities and, and what communities they are a member of With 11 house placements.

So I can just, I can just riff a little bit on Aquarius Rising, right? So a Aqua's first house, um, boundaries on who you, uh, want to become, right? And the boundaries you set on yourself and others so that you can become who you want to be, right?

Um, this might look like saying no to something that someone else wants you to be your one on one partner or people at work, or people in, uh, your, uh, community who, who want you to try to be somebody you're not, right? Those boundaries that we set on who we're becoming. Can come up with Saturn in the first house.

Um, do we have anyone who is Capricorn Rising that wants to talk about Saturn in their second?

Oh yeah. I, I can do that. second house money. Oh my gosh. What a money journey over these last years. I mean, I don't, I don't really know, which is, I guess I did a lot of, I really tried to lean into the Saturn and was really, um, focused on saving money during the pandemic, um, in order to be able to move to Los Angeles.

So, um, it was a time where I had to thank a lot about money, um, and how I was spending it. And I've sort of, it was, it's been, it was difficult, but very rewarding to think about that part of life. Any Sagittarius risings with Saturn in the third house. Thank you, Susan, for sharing.

I guess you could just move on to what it could be for the people who, sure. Yeah. So, uh, so with Saturn going into the third house, uh, you can see, um, challenges with your local area, your neighborhood. Uh, this could also be shared spaces if you live with roommates, you could see boundaries needed on those roommate relationships or sibling relationships.

Um, it's also a, uh, a house that is about communication. What is words that are shared, um, and writing, writing that you do for yourself. You know, like you could write at a journal or, or, uh, actually write a book or whatever. These ways of communication and sharing, um, are what. Going to be the focus for a Saturn in Pisces in the third house for you if you have Pisces in your third house.

So what that looks like is people may be demanding more of you in those shared spaces and your community and you needing to set boundaries and learn how to set boundaries in that part of your life so that you can thrive in that shared space. And those lessons only come from being challenged on it. So you might experience some discomfort in those shared spaces or how your communication is received by those people.

So Scorpio risings with the fourth, and would anybody like to talk about that? Or I can also go into it. I volunteer since we just talked about that. Volunteer tributes. Yeah. . Thanks Jo. Um, uh, so. Mine was in the fourth house of Aquarius, and I believe the fourth house is about like my home. And just trying to like, set boundaries with like family members and, um, to kind of get, you know, my needs met also, to be able to do like what I want to do in like, the long term, uh, which was very hard, and it still is.

But, um, just trying to, you know, kinda, uh, be more like expressive of like, hey, like these are like my needs right now. And like, um, I don't really like, gotta gotta put that out there for them and just, you know, make sure it's not, you know, like also letting them know it's like not personal. I just need to be able to do this so I can like, do what I actually wanna do, like in the long run.

Um, and so that's about like, like within my home and like, uh, just kind of reevaluating like how my home structure is and kind of being like, well, like, um, like, well, You know, uh, try, sorry. I'm like, like my mind thinks a little bit faster than I can talk . So it just, yeah, it's just kind of like reevaluating my home, um, and my family and, uh, seeing like, you know what, so what, what, what does this really do for me now?

Like, like in the long run? You know, I hope I'm like getting it right. Cause we just talk about that. No, you you can't get it wrong. , your experience is, is valid. Yeah. Um, thank you so much. That's been like my, that's been like my experience, uh, which is, even though it's been really rough, like it's still like, you know, fit the theme of like those last two years and what's been going on, um, within my own home and what I have to, what I'm taking away from that basically.

Thank you so much for sharing, Jocelyn. That's awesome. And, and good luck with the boundaries. Thank you, . Very important. Uh, any Libra risings with Saturn that went into your fifth house in Aquarius? Any fifth house lessons? Actually, me too. Oh yeah. Anybody else is arising. Oh, Ashley, you're arising as well.

Yeah, well I actually realized mine was just a straight spiritual awakening. So very interesting. Cuz I didn't believe in this stuff until the, I mean I did and I didn't until that really hit. And then when I started to think about it, I was like, oh my God. And I started to get really into it and as well as like creativity with my childhood that I always wanted to do.

But it was mainly a massive spiritual awakening for me. Very cool. And that's awesome. Yeah, that was definitely the same for me too. Spiritual awakening.

Right on. Um, any, uh, I'm a verbalizing, um, I can talk about, uh, Saturn the sixth. Um, so I was laid off from my job on March 31st, uh, 2020. And over the past two and a half years, I have been trying to figure out what to do for work and money and how to build the structure that can help me to, uh, live and contribute.

Right. And it's not until recently, right around, you know, late October, early November that, um, I've started to understand what it really means to set forth a system of acquiring work that is, uh, helpful and lucrative. And, um, it was a long journey. I was re, you know, I, I've been, I. Tried to get some jobs throughout, and I would get to the last round of the interview and then they'd be like, we've decided not to fill the role.

And, um, so then, uh, I started doing my own thing and, and leaning into this sort of stuff. More doing consultations for people doing, doing this and, and getting a better structure for finding work and storytelling as well. So building that structure of acquiring work was the big thing for me. All right.

Any Leo Risings wanna talk about Seventh House? Sure. Um, so for me, I got engaged and also ended my engagement, uh, all in that same time. Um, I really learned how to. So to set boundaries in that relationship and one of those boundaries, once that boundary was really broken, I, it was time for me to leave. Um, so, but that theme kind of crept in with a lot of like even my work relationships, um, in me having to set boundaries with like a business partner.

Um, and uh, so that was definitely the majority of the theme was like setting boundaries with either like people one on one and or, um, in the partnership that I'm in. And now I'm seeing someone and much better at setting those boundaries a lot quicker and sticking to them. Yeah. Congratulations on making it through.

That's amazing. That's big, like, yeah. You should be very proud to be yourself. That's really big. Thank you. Uh, any, uh, cancer risings Wanna talk about the eighth house?

I can go into it. Uh, so eighth house is partners resources. Um, it's also inheritance, it's loans, uh, and uh, borrowed money. Um, but the eighth house is a strange house. We talked about it a little bit in another one of the breakout rooms where, um, that house is an unconscious house, right? It's something that we don't necessarily have a whole lot of control over.

I'm like the Chris Farley character right now with the air quotes, but, um, Basically eighth house can bring up the unconscious inheritance that we've gathered from our families, right? Our family culture, what we're supposed to be, how we're supposed to act, what we're supposed to give a partner or get in return.

Those kinds of inherited emotional things or inherited cultural things can come up and we can be asked to set boundaries on those to have more control over our own lives and ask for what we need instead of what we think we deserve. Um, so that can be the boundary that pops up there. Um, any Gemini Risings wanna talk about ninth house?

All right, Audrey. So I guess I didn't do the whole house, so I think I was associated mine with my 10 house, 10th house, but honestly, I think this is relevant for both my ninth and my 10th house. Mm-hmm. . Um, I'm in my Saturn turn right now, and as I was telling my group, my Saturn turn kicked my ass. And pretty much everything in my life changed completely.

And so at least lessons with career and public reputation. I had to, I lost my job during Covid as well, but I had also quit a job before that. Leading to that because of a relationship my a three and a half year relationship had ended, um, planning to move with them anyway, learned a lot about my, like, lost my job, had to deal with that.

And then my public, public reputation, there was so much, I'm trying to like wrap it up, but I also lost a lot of my hair from grieving and also from like processing. And so at least with public reputation, I can really attribute that to like, I held, I didn't realize how much of my identity I held in my hair because it was so long.

And, um, it was like short. But, uh, so that was, I learned so many lessons. I mean, through my Saturn return, I was like, if none of the things that happened, During my center turn had happened, I would never be who I am right now, and I would've never learned the lessons. And so with the ninth House, honestly, it really relates to my spiritual awakening.

So I was very religious before any of this happened, and honestly, never really, I mean, it resonated, but it wasn't me until all of this happened. I mean, I've completely walked away. Kind of my upbringing and, and there were so many lessons in kind of creating a foundation of values that were completely my own, that resonated with me as opposed to the foundations of values that were given to me through my life and through covid.

I moved back in with my family after living on my own, cuz I lost my place in Chicago after the breakup. And my fa my house was kind of, um, emotionally toxic, a lot of narcissism. And so, you know, it was a humongous lesson in loving myself because through my relationship I really learned just receiving genuine love from someone else.

But when that ended, it was like, I knew the feeling, but then I had to give it to myself because that went away. And there really wasn't a great receivable of that when I went back to my house. And so it was like, it was a constant battle and learn like a lesson, learn of just like being able to be there for myself and being able to get myself through things.

And it's still okay to rely on other people, but just like. Loving who I, who I am and just like kind of finding myself through the process. It's hard to wrap it all up because truly like I have learned so many lessons and I'm a completely different person than when I started my side on return. And so much has happened.

I told my group too was like I went to the psych board, I went to rehab cuz I went through a lot of mental illness. Like I was very depressed, a little suicidal during my grieving and all of that kinda stuff. But again, if none of that would've happened, I would've never become who I am now. And like I would've never been able to just love myself for things not like career and not like my achievements.

Yeah. And from the external sources is just like loving who I am and being okay in the public reputation that I give just because I think my values are great. Like I love my values and I stand by them. So anyway, congratulations on making it through all that. That is, that is a hell of a Saturn return. I was gonna say that.

Thank you so much for sharing, Audrey. Um, any tourist risings you wanna talk about 10th House?

I would love for you to just go over it, , of course. So, uh oh. Um, Sylvia, do you have a question? I would just say I was, I'm a tourist rising. Oh, okay. Uh, Nikki, is it okay if, uh, Sylvia shares and then Oh yeah. I can add some on top. Yeah. Perfect. So, I actually kind of had the Chico doing a quarterly, uh, review with Jake, uh, about a month ago, which was amazing.

It helped me to lean into what, to do, what I was going through. Um, and career was big. It was about setting boundaries, um, with a boss that's a little bit, um, unhealed and toxic and, um, her energy just kind of clashes with mine a bit. And I had to make a tough decision about just really being direct and setting that boundary with her and or walk away, just kind of like be done with it.

And, um, decided to have a tough conversation with her, to actually went really well in a positive way where she listened, she received the information, took the boundaries, and it really kind of set the tone for, I was very direct with like, Hey, look here, they need from you. Um, you kind of broke some trust with me and it can be earned.

But I don't ever wanna have to go through this again. I trust that you can come to me next time. And she actually apologized, which I didn't even expect, like when the conversation was your expectation. So that was huge to get that from her and then also kind of lay out like, this is where I wanna go with my career, what am supposed to do.

Um, and it went. Hey went amazing. And then, um, it's kinda twofold cause I also have another part of my life where I, I coach youth wrestling and we kicked off the season and, um, I've almost doubled the girls I have from my team, which was a big thing. And, um, I had a lot of dads reach out and I was just always kind of a, like, it's, it's a fine line to toe where I have to be assertive.

I can't, you know, I can't be too assertive and I have to assert dominance of I know what I'm talking about. Let me handle this. I have your kids to the point that we've grown so much more just from word of mouth of other families talking about how they affected, how they appreciated, how it impacted their kids and their lives.

And kind of like that. It's almost like a another career thing that I'm growing. Um, but like just taking those stance outta those boundaries. I have already been paying off like 10. Yeah. That's awesome. Thank you so much for sharing, um, the career stuff, being able to set the boundaries on, uh, what you want to do and what you are willing to do in the career and with those you work with in your career.

Right. And this is a little, this is, uh, a little tricky because sometimes that can be like six house work related for an employer, right? But your career is kind of something that you are building to then be seen for doing. And establishing yourself and setting your boundaries with those in your career are going to be a theme that come up there, right?

And then being respected for the boundaries and discipline that you show in that career is also what Saturn will reward you with when you set those boundaries. So that's great. Thank you so much for sharing, Sylvia. Um, any Aries Risings wanna talk about 11th house?

Um, I'm s rising. And, um, so it's a 11 Southwood in Saturn, the network community, um, leading up to 2020. I got divorced, uh, in the 2019 and then started, moved across the city and started, um, new community. I, I guess, like making friends, uh, with coworker and whatnot. Um, and then the covid hit, uh, around that time it, things start happening where that people are showing their true colors, where, like, I question me a lot, like who's my true friend, who's not.

Um, and since then, the last two years it kind of up and down, um, setting boundaries, um, making friends, what's friends, what's not, um, who's a true, you know, um, tribe for me who's not. Um, it, it's, it's honestly been challenging and still, uh, challenging to this day, um, setting. Um, boundaries with X, um, because he is continued to push in.

Um, but I think I've been learning better. Um, so with that going out after March, I'm really hoping that things would turn around. Um, and as far as just community thing, um, this community happened was a big thing. So I'm hoping that this will, um, uh, you know, just grow, um, and be better even like after March.

So I'm looking forward to it. Yeah. Um, sending you all the luck with Saturn going in a Pisces Midor. Thank you so much for sharing. Um, any uh, Pisces Rising that wanna talk about 12th House,

I can also. Yeah, you can just go for it. So, yeah, so 12th House, um, is a house of the unconscious. It's a house of endings and it's a house of, uh, quote unquote hidden enemies in the traditional system. Essentially, the 12th house, to me is two things. It's ways we self sabotage and it's our pre self house.

This is where things kind of happen to us that then lead us into the next phase of our lives and the next phase of who we become. Right? So, so what This can look. Is needing a lot of alone time to process things, right? And needing alone time to do something that only you want to do. And challenges being made on what you are allowed to do when you're alone, or how much alone time you are allowed to have is also a house of solitude, right?

So getting challenged on peace of mind and having the ability to reflect and sit still and be with yourself and explore those unconscious places for yourself will be challenged because you'll be forced into situations where you might self-sabotage, where you might, um, act unconsciously and it might get in your way, right?

So being forced to kind of confront those things that you do, that get into, that gets into your own way is going to be a thing that you are then processing and the way that you kind of lean into that, set a boundary so that you can spend the time alone to reflect. On the ways that you might act in, uh, outside of your own self-interest.

Um, so getting more alone time is another big thing for that. Going on a yoga retreat or, or a spiritual retreat of some sort. Taking a vacation where you get to meditate for a while and, and getting that time for yourself to reflect and grow. Um, okay, I think we made it through the whole wheel. Thank you so much everyone, um, for all of your sharing.

Your stories are beautiful. You're all so strong and you're wonderful. And, um, I, uh, I'm always happy to help with questions and, and, and stuff by email too. Um, and, uh, Yeah, if you're interested in going deeper, you can, uh, go to the gum road link that's in, at the end of the, um, slide deck, uh, that I shared with everyone.

And, uh, clicking through that link, you can book an appointment with me and we can dive deeper into these things together in, uh, forecasts or a natal chart reading. I believe we do have time for one question, Jocelyn. Yeah, just go ahead, Jocelyn. Oh man. Wasn't a question. I just wanted to tell everybody that if they are considering it, like please do it because I just, I just wanna brag about you, like font about you a little bit. Like he's amazing. Like I just, so Jolyn, thank you too. I just did, uh, my reading, my yearly reading with him and it's so informative, like, I'm so.

I'm so like, I feel like I'm more prepared now, especially since my Saturn return's coming up guys. So that was like very helpful to kind of be like, all right, this is like what I, what I can expect and also look forward to, but also kind of just have like a better preparation instead of going in like super blindly.

Cause I think if I would've went in this blindly, I think I would've ended up crying the whole time. And so, um, so I think, uh, I just wanted to say that if you are thinking about it, please do it. It's amazing. Um, it's super informative. Um, and it is very, very useful. Um, like from what the, the time, the, just the one that we did today.

And I also did a natal chart with reading with him too. And that was also like very helpful too, just kind of setting up a groundwork too of my natal chart and all that. So yeah, I just wanted to compliment you a little bit, Jake, cause yeah, it was really, really good. And you deserve your flowers. Oh, thank you so much, Jocelyn.

I really appreciate you saying that. And thank you, Sylvia, for also mentioning that in the chat. I, I really appreciate both of you. Um, thank you so much everyone for sharing and being vulnerable and uncomfortable. Like this is, this was an amazing session. Thank you, Jake. Um, this like vulnerability is really great reminder of why we do this community as well, like, as well as like learning from each other and learning from experts.

This was great. Thank you so much. Yeah, thanks everybody. Y'all are awesome. Yes, all my favorites, Replay is available and um, about 24 hours or so for everybody who wants to watch it again or take more notes. So thank you for showing up. I'll see you next time. Awesome. See you all next time. Hi everyone.

Thank you. Bye guys. Thank you so much. Bye.
